

Contents

1	Nouns	2
1.1	People	2
1.2	Common objects	4
1.3	Locations and things to do	7
1.3.1	Directions	9
1.4	Time	10
1.5	Miscellaneous	11
1.6	Numbers	12
2	Phrases and sayings	14
2.1	Common sayings	14
2.1.1	Conversation examples	17
2.2	Expressions	18
2.3	Saying “please”	19
3	Adjectives/Adverbs	19
3.1	Grammar	19
3.2	Dictionary	20
4	Grammar	22
4.1	Particles	22
4.1.1	は (wa)	22
4.1.2	が (ga)	23
4.1.3	の (no)	23
4.1.4	を (o)	23
4.1.5	も (mo)	23
4.1.6	と (to)	23
4.1.7	で (de)	24
4.1.8	に (ni)	24
4.1.9	へ (e)	24
4.1.10	か (ka)	25
4.1.11	ね (ne)	25
4.1.12	よ (yo)	25
4.1.13	でも (demo)	25
4.2	“wa” vs “ga”	25
4.3	And	27
4.4	Invitations	27
4.5	Negations	27
4.6	Questions	28
4.6.1	When	29
4.7	Comparisons	29
4.8	If	29
4.9	Word specifics	31
4.9.1	Movement: iku vs kuru	31
4.9.2	A little: chotto	31
4.9.3	Formality: go-/o- prefixes	31
4.9.4	Until: made	31
4.9.5	For (the purpose of): you	31
4.9.6	Thing/Concept: koto	32
4.9.7	I wonder: kana	32
4.9.8	Because: kara/node	32
4.9.9	To do: suru vs yaru	32

4.9.10	Emphasis/Joking: なんて	33
4.9.11	Way/method: 通 vs 道	33

5	Verbs	34
5.1	Overview	34
5.2	Tenses	35
5.2.1	Plain form/Simple present	35
5.2.2	Past tense	35
5.2.3	-te form	35
5.2.4	Casual negative form (nai)	36
5.2.5	Potential form	36
5.2.6	Want	37
5.2.7	Must	38
5.2.8	Should/Let’s	38
5.3	Imasu/Arimasu vs Desu	38
5.4	Imasu vs Arimasu	39
5.5	List of verbs	40
5.6	Verb Specifics	43
6	Kana	43
6.1	Pronunciation	43
6.1.1	Vowels	43
6.1.2	Dropped Vowels	44
6.1.3	On’yomi and Kun’yomi	44
6.2	Hiragana	44
6.3	Katakana	46

1 Nouns

1.1 People

Subjects

僕 boku	I (male, used to be servant/young person)
私 watashi	I (polite)
- 達 tachi	we
俺 ore	I (rough?)
あなた anata	you
男 otoko	male
女 onna	female
__の子 ko	child
__の人 hito	adult
__の達 tachi	plural
彼 kare	male/person (can also be children)
-ら ra	men/people
彼女 kanojo	female
- 達 tachi
大人 otona	adult (lit. big people)
-tachi
子供 kodomo	children
-tachi
主人 shujin	master
嬢 jou	lady (both usually “o-_-sama”)
少年 / 少女 shounen shoujo	boy/girl
これ kore	this
-ra	plural
それ sore	it/that
あれ are	that (over there)
来店 raiten	visitor
客 kyaku	customer
彼氏 kareshi	boyfriend
奴 yatsu	“guy/thing,” used in times with no respect either friendly or not, kind of like a naughtier 人. Note: this also works with こ/そ/あ to form e.g. こいつ and あいつ. Think of it as somewhere between “this” and “this shit”
大将 taishou	general/boss (but also used for chef)
妻 tsuma	wife

You can see a pattern with kore, sore, and are:

Things that point

これ	this (one) [out of many]
それ	it/that (one)
あれ	that (one) (over there)
どれ	which (one)
この	this ____ (e.g. “this book”)
その	that ____
あの	that ____
どの	which ____
ここ	here
そこ	there
あこ	over there
どこ	where
誰 dare	who
こっち	this (one) [out of two]
そっち	that (one)
あっち	that (one)
どっち	which one
こっちら	this (one) [polite, out of any]
そっちら	that (one)
あっちら	that (one)
どっちら	which one (could also mean where, e.g. kuruma o dochira desuka = “where/which is your car?”) (could also be dono (add no)) (could also be dare (add sama))

People

Honorific 様 sama -san	Most honorific/master/God Mr./Ms.
Informal -chan	Usually used for girls, children, friends, etc. Sometimes used for men. Kind of cutesy.
君 -kun	Usually used for guys. Also, kind of cutesy, so often not used for men.
-bo	More cutesy than -chan and -kun and more childish. Do NOT use for adult male
-tan	Used between couples and only in private
友達 / 友人 tomodachi yujin 友 tomo	friend (uses 達 tachi) friend
Family お母さん okaasan お父さん otousan お婆さん obaasan お爺さん ojiisan 叔母さん obasan 叔父さん ojisan お姉さん oneesan お兄さん oniisan 妹 imouto 弟 otouto	Generally, follows “o- _ -san” format mother father grandmother grandfather aunt uncle older sister older brother younger sister younger brother
親 oya 家族 kazoku	parent(s) family
息子さん musuko-san 娘さん musume-san	son daughter
恋人 koibito 元カノ moto kano	lover ex-girlfriend (元彼女) moto kanojo
都合がいい女 tsugou ga ii onna セフレ sefure	friend with benefits
日本 nihon	Japan
語 -go 英語 eigo 日本語 nihongo	language English language Japanese language
人 -jin 日本人 nihonjin	people Japanese people

Occupations

仕事 shigoto	job/occupation
警察官 / 警官 keisatsukan keikan	police officer
医者 isha	doctor
会社員 kaishain "kaishai-in"	office worker
学生 gakusei	student
年生 -nensei	_ year student
二年生 ninensei	second year student
留学生 ryuugakusei	international student
大学生 daigakusei	college student
大学院生 daigakuinsei	graduate student
高校生 koukousei	high school student
専攻 senkou	school major
コンピュータ konpyuutaa	computer
科学 kagaku	science
文学 bungaku	literature
人類学 jinrui-gaku	anthropology
ビジネス bijinesu	business
アジア研究 ajia kenkyuu	Asian studies
経済 keizai	economics
国際関係 kokusai kankei	international relations
政治 seiji	politics
歴史 rekishi	history
弁護士 bengoshi	lawyer
先生 sensei	teacher or honorable master
教師 kyoushi	teacher (modest, such as when describing one's own occupation)
主婦 shufu	housewife

1.2 Common objects

Common items

物 mono	stuff
持ち物 mochimono	one's own belongings
事 koto/-ji	thing (e.g. 大事 daiji)
円 en	yen
選択(肢) sentaku(shi)	option/choice
予定 yotei	plans/schedule
用事 youji	tasks/things to do
窓 mado	window
箸 hashi	chopsticks
本 hon	book
写真 shashin	photo
傘 kasa	umbrella
カバン kaban	bag
財布 saifu	wallet
名刺 meishi	business card
お金 okane	money
お土産 omiyage	souvenir
贈り物 okurimono	gift
座席 / 席 zaseki seki	seat
貸金庫 kashikinko	safe-deposit box
料金 ryoukin	price
障子 shouji	paper sliding door (hash)
畳 tatami	Japanese straw floor mat
言葉 kotoba	word
携帯 keitai	cell phone (lit. portable)
スマホ sumaho	smart phone
ガラケ garake	dumb phone (contraction of "Galapagos portable")
写メ shame	picture message (contraction)
明かり akari	light (general, e.g. "the lights")
番組 bangumi	program/show

Common Kanji

入 iri/iru/-nyuu/juu	enter/insert (入れる, 入る) ireru hairu
口 guchi	opening/mouth
窓口 madoguchi	ticket window
南口 minami guchi	south exit
入口 iriguchi	entrance
出口 deguchi	exit
笑 emi	Lol
立入禁止 tachiirikinshi	keep out
注目 chuumoku	attention/notice
お知らせ oshirase	notice/announcement
電 -den	electricity (電話, 電気, 電車, 電灯, 電球) denwa denki electric train light/lamp light bulb densha dentou denkyuu
明 aki,aka/mei-,myou-,men-	bright, light
末 sue/-matsu	end/close (週末) shuumatsu
未 -mi	not yet
未来 mirai	future (lit. not yet come)
以 -i	by means of/compared with
以来 irai	since (“since then, ...”)
以内 inai	within/inside (n.) less than (adv.)
以下 ika	less than/below
以上 ijou	more than/above
外 soto/-gai	outside
以外 igai	other than/except _
訳 wake/-yaku	translation/reason/meaning

Food (high level)

食べ物 / 食物 / 飯 tabemono shokumotsu meshi	food
食事 / ミール shokuji miiru	meal
ご飯 gohan	Japanese food
和食 washoku	menu
メニュー menyuu	menu/program/schedule
献立 kondate	order
注文 chuumon	breakfast
朝ごはん asagohan	lunch
昼ごはん hirugohan	dinner
晩ごはん bangohan	grilled
焼き yaki	grilled chicken (lit. grilled bird)
焼き鳥 yaki tori	octopus dumplings (lit. grilled octopus)
たこ焼き tako yaki	meat
肉 niku	vegetable
野菜 yasai	sushi (both nigiri & maki)
寿司 sushi	fish on a bed of rice (握る) nigiru
握り nigiri	roll (sushi with nori on outside)
巻 maki	“hand-rolled” (hand-roll maki)
手巻き temaki	“sliced body” (fish with no rice)
刺身 sashimi	snack/appetizer, also used to request sushi without rice
つまみ	dried seaweed
海苔 nori	red bean paste
餡こ anko	curry
カレー	non-smoking section
禁煙席 kin en seki	smoking section
喫煙席 kitsu en seki	bill
お会計 okaikaei	bento box lunch
弁当 bentou	train station bento often has local specialties
駅弁 ekiben

Food (items)

ご飯 / お米 gohan okome	rice
そば soba	wheat noodle
鳥 tori	bird/poultry
鶏 niwa tori	chicken
雛 / ひよこ hina	chick
たこ tako	octopus
いか ika	squid
魚 sakana	fish
鮪 maguro	tuna
鮭 / サーモン sake	salmon
鰹節 katsuo-bushi	bonito flakes
牛肉 gyuu niku	beef (lit. cow meat)
とろ / かた toro kata	soft/hard (boiled egg)
卵 / 玉子 tamago tamago	egg
河豚 fugu	blowfish
唐揚げ kara age	fried chicken
パン pan	bread
アイスクリーム aisukuriimu	ice cream
ハンバーガー hanbaagaa	hamburger
チーズバーガー chiizubaagaa	cheeseburger
林檎 ringo	apple
美味しい oishii	delicious
盛り合わせ moriawase	assorted (if alone = combo platter)
串 kushi	skewers

Food adjectives

美味しい oishii	delicious
甘い amai	sweet
辛い tsurai/karai	spicy
抜き nuki	without

Drinks

飲み物 nomimono	drink
飲料 inryou	beverage
乾杯 kanpai	cheers
水 mizu	water
お茶 ocha	tea
コーヒー koohii	coffee
ジュース juusu	juice
ミルク / 牛乳 miruku gyuunyuu	milk
酒 sake	alcohol
日本酒 nihonshu	sake
焼酎 shouchuu	shochu
梅酒 umeshu	plum wine

Food (toppings)

砂糖 satou	sugar
塩 shio	salt
味付け ajitsuke	seasoned
調味料 choumiryou	seasoning
煮 ni	boiled
とんかつ tonkatsu	pork cutlet
ねぎ negi	leek/green onion
唐辛子 tougashii	chili (pepper)

Office/room items

部屋 heya	room
台所 daidokoro	kitchen
道具 dougū	utensil/tool
椅子 isu	chair
鉛筆 enpitsu	pencil
消しゴム keshigomu	eraser
ゴム gomu	rubber
ペン pen	pen
ノート nooto	notebook
机 tsukue	desk
新聞 shinbun	newspaper
雑誌 zasshi	magazine
時計 tokei	watch/clock
手紙 tegami	letter
メール meeru	email
ボール booru	ball
電話 denwa	telephone
テレビ terebi	TV
辞書 jisho	dictionary
黒板 kokuban	blackboard

Plants

草 kusa	grass
花 hana	flower
花見 hanami	act of enjoying flowers (lit. flower viewing)
桜 sakura	cherry blossom
木 moku/ki	wood or tree
森 / 林 / 森林 mori hayashi shinrin	forest

Colors

色 iro	color
黒 kuro	black
白 shiro	white
赤 aka	red
青 ao	blue
黄色 kiiro	yellow
緑 midori	green

Clothing

靴 kutsu	shoes
ジーンズ jiinzu	jeans
シャツ shatsu	shirt
帽子 boushi	hat/cap

Animals

犬 inu	dog
猫 neko	cat
馬 uma	horse
牛 ushi	cow
梟 fukurou	owl
体 karada	body

1.3 Locations and things to do

Buildings

トイレ / 便所 toire benjo	toilet/restroom
喫茶店 / カフェ kissaten kafe	cafe
居酒屋 izakaya	bar/pub/tavern
レストラン / 料亭 resutoran ryoutei	restaurant
店 mise	shop
売店 baiten	shop/stand
店舗 tenpo	store
__屋 __-ya	__-store (e.g. bookstore restaurant honya ryouriya)
建物 tatemono	building
家 ie	house
うち uchi	home
大学 daigaku	college/university
高校 koukou	high school
学校 gakkou	school (学) manabu
銀行 ginkou	bank
図書館 toshokan	library
郵便局 yuubinkyoku	post office
会社 kaisha	company/office
仕事 / 作業 shigoto sagyou	work
病院 byouin	hospital/doctor's office
教室 kyoushitsu	classroom
ホテル hoteru	hotel
スーパー suupaa	supermarket
デパート depaato	department store
水族館 suizokukan	aquarium (apparently, hot spot)
博物館 hakubutsukan	museum
出身 shusshin	home town, come-from, place of origin/graduation
お茶会 ochakai	tea party/ceremony
歓迎会 kangeikai	welcome party

Transportation/Movement

鉄道駅 tetsudou eki	train station
鉄道 tetsudou	railway (lit. iron road)
駅 eki	station
通り touri	street
バス停 basu tei	bus stop
道路 douro	road/highway
道 michi	road/street/way/path
国際空港 kokusai kuukou	international airport
線 sen	line/wire/beam (e.g. train line)
地下鉄 chikatetsu	subway
列車 ressha	train
電車 densha	electric train
新幹線 shinkansen	bullet train
車 kuruma	car
自転車 jitensha	bike
バス basu	bus
公共交通 koukyoukoutsuu	public transportation
乗車 jousha	boarding/entering to ride/board Like 乗る (see List of verbs) noru
配達 haitatsu	delivery

Nature

自然 shizen	nature/natural
温泉 onsen	hot springs
公園 kouen	park
公 kou	public
お寺 otera	temple
庭園 / 庭 / 園 teien niwa en	garden
__ 山 yama/san	mountain (富士山) Mt. Fuji fujisan

Location Kanji

路 -ro 道路 douro 水路 suiro	Kanji for “road/way” road/highway waterway/channel/canal
所 tokoro/-jo	place (便所) bathroom benjo
外 soto/-gai	outside

Things to do

映画 eiga	movie
音楽 ongaku	music
まつり matsuri	festival
買い物 kaimono	shopping (物 = stuff) mono
試合 shiai	game/match/contest
クラス kurasu	class
アルバイト arubaito	part-time job
スポーツ supootsu	sports
デート deito	date (romantic)
テニス tenisu	tennis

1.3.1 Directions

Relative directions

右 migi	right
左 hidari	left
真っ直ぐ massugu	straight
前 mae	front (see also: Time) Also means “across (the street)” or “opposite X”
向い mukai	opposite X e.g. across the street
後ろ ushiro	back (後) later/behind ato/ushi-,-go
裏 ura	back (behind something else, not visible)
中 naka	inside
上 ue	on
下 shita	under
近く / そば chikaku / soba	near/nearby
横 / 隣 yoko / tonari	next to Tonari is used when the items are of the same category, e.g. “two people” or “two pens.” Yoko is used when they’re different.
間 aida	between (A と B の 間)
反対側 hantaisoku	opposite side (反対側 に...)
方 hou/pou/kata	direction/way. Used for: moving directions cardinal directions 行き方 ; 南方 ikikata nanpou conceptual directions 方法 houhou
住所 juusho	street address

For the directions above, the direction word goes after の such that the noun before の is the descriptor and the direction after の is the main topic. Examples:

- カバンは机の下です = “The bag is under the desk.”
kaban wa tsukue no shita desu
- 猫は椅子の上います = “The cat is on the chair.”
neko wa isu no ue imasu
- 銀行は図書館と喫茶店の間にあります = “The bank is between the library and the coffee shop” ginkou wa toshokan to kissaten no aida ni arimasu

Cardinal directions

北 kita/hop	north
南 minami/nan	south
東 higashi/tou	east
西 nishi/sei	west
南方 nanpou	southward/south side (note use of on'yomi)
東北 touhoku	northeast

High-level locations

— の 行き方 no ikikata	directions (to __)
国 kuni	country
都市 toshi	city
-区 -ku	ward/district
地区 chiku	district
街 machi	town
東京 toukyou	Tokyo
京都 kyouto	Kyoto
大阪 ousaka	Osaka
アメリカ Amerika	USA
イギリス igirisu	Britain
韓国 kankoku	Korea
中国 chuugoku	China
四川省 shisenshou	Sichuan
日本国 nipponkoku	Japan

Other location-based words

階段 kaidan	stairs
曲がる magaru	to turn (e.g. around a corner)
上がる agaru	to go up (e.g. stairs)

Examples:

- First, turn right (from here),
 • まず は そこ まで 右 に 曲がって
 mazu ha soko made migi ni magatte
 then go up the stairs at the end 突き当たりの 階段 を 上 が れ tsukiatari no kaidan o agare

1.4 Time

Qualifiers

時間 jikan	time
午前 gozen	AM (lit. before noon)
午後 gogo	PM
時 toki/ji	time/o'clock/hour
半 han	half
頃 - goro	around (see Numbers)
何時頃 nanji goro	around what time
三時頃 sanji goro	around 3 o'clock
ほど	approximately e.g. about 15 minutes
— 時間 — jikan	— hours
三時間 sanjikan	3 hours
前 mae	before (mae ni)
先 saki/-sen	before (osaki douzo)
まで	until/by/before
まだ	still/yet e.g. I'm still not done
以降 ikou	thereafter/on and after (like "I'll come after 5:00")
過ぎ sugi	past/after (like "I'll come after 5:00")
はじめ hajime	begin (verb 始める) hajimeru
はじめ 何 を しますか hajime nani o shimasuka	What do you want to do first?
よく / しばしば yoku shibashiba	often (adverb)
時々 tokidoki	sometimes (adverb)
しばらく shibaraku	for a while (adverb)
最近 saikin	recently
現在 genzai	currently
後で atode	later (後) ato/u,-go
前/今/次-回 zen/kon/ji-kai	last/this/next time
今度 kondo	this/next time (context)
期間 kikan	length of time/period/term
遅刻 chikoku	late (noun, e.g. 遅刻だよ) It's late chikoku da yo

Note that durations of time, e.g. 一時間^{one hour}, aren't followed by any particles. Examples:

- メアリーさんはあそこ^{Mary waited for him there for an hour}で彼を一時間待ちました
Mary-san wa asoko de kare o ichijikan machimashita
- 私は昨日図書館で日本語を三時間勉強しました
I studied Japanese in the library for 3 hours yesterday
Watashi wa kinou toshokan de nihongo o sanjikan benkyoushimashita
- 治るのにどのくらいの期間がかかりますか
How long will it take to get well?
naoru noni donokurai no kikan ga kakarimasuka

Finally is said multiple different ways depending on what they mean:

- ついに = finally (after working hard) tsuini
I finally finished school ついに大学院を済みました tsuini daigakuin o sumimashita
- やっと = finally (gradually, slowly) yatto
I finally talked to her やっと彼女と話した yatto kanojo to hanashita

Later/after is said using 後^{later/rear/behind}. For example:
ple:

- うちに帰った後、何があったの = “What happened after I returned home?”
uchi ni kaetta ato, nani ga atta no

Relative time of the day

朝 asa	morning
昼 hiru	noon/daytime
明日 ashita	tomorrow
昨日 kinou	yesterday
週 shuu	week
週末 shuumatsu	weekend
日 nichi	day
晩 ban	night
夜 yoru/-ya	night
毎 mai	every ____
毎日 mainichi	every day
毎晩 maiban	every night
今 ima	now (also “this ____”)
今日 kyou	today
今晚 konban	this evening
今夜 konya	this evening/night
今週 konshuu	this week
今朝 kesa	this morning
来 rai	next ____
来土曜日 rai doyoubi	next Saturday
来年二月 rainen nigatsu	February next year
先 sen/saki	ahead/before/previous
先週 senshuu	last week

Days and such

nichiyoubi 日曜日	Sunday “Sun-weekday”
getsuyoubi 月曜日	Monday “Moon-weekday”
kayoubi 火曜日	Tuesday “Fire-weekday”
suiyoubi 水曜日	Wednesday “Water-weekday”
mokuyoubi 木曜日	Thursday “Wood-weekday”
kinyoubi 金曜日	Friday “Money-weekday”
doyoubi 土曜日	Saturday “Earth-weekday”
__ 月 gatsu	month of __ January February e.g. 1月 = 2月 ichigatsu nigatsu

Other time-related words

誕生日 tanjoubi	birthday
お誕生日 おめでとう otanjoubi omedetou	happy birthday

You will note that 間 aida/-kan/-ma has many different meanings (e.g. between, hours, etc.). This is because 間 is a general kanji for time/space/while/interval/etc. Don't fret too hard about not understanding it completely.

1.5 Miscellaneous

Weather

空 sora	sky
太陽 taiyou	solar/sun
月 tsuki	moon
世界 sekai	world
夕焼け yuuyake	sunset (lit. scorched evening)
雨 ame	rain
雪 yuki	snow
暑い atsui	hot/warm

Body parts

手 te	hand
足 ashi	foot/leg
声 koe	voice

Other

おかげ okage	thanks (as a noun) e.g. “Thanks to my friend, ...”
おめでとう	congratulations
発明 hatsumeai	invention
理由 riyuu	reason
重視 juushi	focus/emphasis
方向 houkou	direction(s)
休暇 kyuuka	vacation
休 yasa/-kyuu	rest
暇 hima/-ka	spare time, leisure
学割 gakuwari	student discount
準備 junbi	preparation/provision/arrangements
上手 jouzu	skill(ed/ful)
喧嘩 kenka	fight
黙祷 mokutou	silent prayer/moment of silence
喰種 guuru	ghoul
秘密 himitsu	secret
興味 kyoumi	interest (興味がある) I am interested
賛成 sansei	I agree with him agree (彼に賛成だ) kare ni sansei da
署名 shomei	signature
自己紹介 jikoshoukai	self-introduction
嘘 uso	lie
略 ryaku	abbreviation/stands for geisen means game center ゲーセンはゲームセンターの略だ geisen wa geimu sentaa no ryaku da
エッチ	lewd/immoral/sex
冗談 joudan	joke
総集編 soushuuhen	omnibus (series summary episode)
修行 shugyou	training/discipline
研修 kenshuu	training

1.6 Numbers

Numbers (Numerals = on'yomi)

番号 bangou	number (series of digits)
零 rei/nuru	zero
一 ichi/hito-	one
二 ni/futa-	two
三 san/mi-	three
四 yon,shi/yo-	four
五 go/itsu-	five
六 roku/mu-	six
七 nana,shichi/nana-	seven
八 hachi/ya-	eight
九 kyuu/kokono-	nine
十 juu/tou-	ten
百 hyaku	hundred
千 sen	thousand
万 man	10,000
十万 juuman	100,000
百万 hyakuman	1 million

Numbers 1-100 are quite simple: you just append what number from 1-10 onto where it would be to say the number. For example, fifteen would be 10 + 5 = "juugo." Likewise, putting a number before 10 makes it a multiple of ten: "ni juu go" = twenty five.

Example sentences:

- nan sai desu ka = how old are you?
- ni juu yon sai desu = I am twenty four
- Otokono hito wa nijuuhassai desu = He is 28 years old

Counters/words dealing with numbers

時間 jikan	hour
分 pun/bun	minute
日 ka	day
週間 shuukan	week
ヶ月 kagetsu	month(s) (duration)
年 nen	year
歳 sai	years old
番 ban	number (e.g. 一番 ^{number 1} ichiban)
第 dai	ordinal (e.g. 第二 ^{second} daini)
人 nin	people (e.g. 三人 ^{3 people will come} ga kimasu) Exceptions: 一人 ^{1 person} hitori 二人 ^{2 people} futari
目 me	turns (almost) any number into a cardinal number, e.g. 三人目 ^{the third person will come later} ga atode kimasu ^{first/best} 一番 vs ^{first in a set} 一番目 ichiban ichibanme
回 kai	Occurrences, number of times
前/今/次回 zen/kon/ji-kai	(frequent word) last/this/next time
個 ko	Generic counter for item/article/thing/food
貫 kan	Counter for sushi (could also use 個 ^{ko})
つ	Counter for anything not in a category. Also used for numerals (hito- , futa- , etc.)
てん	Points (e.g. score), dots, pieces of a set
線 sen	line/wire/beam (e.g. train line)

Often, the pronunciation of the 3, 6, and 8 versions of items will change:

Number changes

Number	Hundreds	Thousands	Years old one two three	sanbyaku	sanzen four five six	roppyaku seven
eight	happyaku	hassen	hassai nine
ten			20 = hatachi

Number changes (time)

Number	Hours	Minutes
one		ippun
two		nifun
three		sanpun
four	yoji	yonpun
five		gofun
six		roppun
seven	shichiji	nanafun
eight		hachifun/happun
nine		kyuufun
ten		juupun/jipun

Other number words

数 kazu/-suu	number (also means a few days later “few” 数日後) suu jitsu go
数学 suugaku	mathematics
人数 ninzuu	number of people
頃 goro	about/approximately Used for a specific time, but not a period of time, e.g. I'll come home around 3:00 三時頃 帰る sanji goro kaeru
約 yaku ほど / くらい	about/approximately Used for periods of time or quantity. 約 is put before the quantity, the others after. e.g. I waited for about an hour (約) 一時間 (くらい) 待った (yaku) ichijikan (gurai) matta
最初 saisho	first/beginning (time)
初めて hajimete	first (for the first time)
先ず mazu	first of all/to start with
次 tsugi	next
最後 saigo	last
共 tomo	both (e.g. 二人共) futari tomo
度に tabi ni	every time
お釣り otsuri	change (after payment)
小銭 kozeni	small(er) change (than offered)

最初 is used to say “at first” whereas 初めて is used to say “for the very first time.” 先ず is used to say “first” in the case where there are steps. 先ず and 最初 can sometimes be interchangeable. Examples:

- 初めて 日本に行ったとき、帽子を買った
hajimete nihon ni itta toki, boushi o katta
= “When I went to Japan for the first time, I bought a hat”
- 最初 家に着いたとき、トイレに行った =
saisho ie ni tsuita toki, toire ni itta
= “When I first arrived at home, I went to the bathroom”
- 先ず 肉を料理して、次に野菜を料理して
mazu niku o ryourishite, tsugi ni yasai o ryourishite
= “first cook the meat, next cook the veggies”

2 Phrases and sayings

2.1 Common sayings

Hellos/goodbyes

Hello (getting attention, like on the phone)

- もしもし
moshi moshi

Good morning (polite)

- おはよう (ございます)
Ohayou (gozaimasu)

Thank you (polite)

- ありがとう (ございます)
Arigatou (gozaimasu)

- どういたしまして = “You’re welcome”

- こんにちは = “Good afternoon”
konnichiwa

- こんにちは = “Good evening”
konbanwa

- お休み (なさい) = “Good night”
oyasumi (nasai)

- さようなら = “Good bye (long term, don’t use)”
sayounara

- じゃあまた = “See you soon (friends)”
jaa mata

- また = “Again”
mata

- またね = “See you later (lit. again, right?)”
mata ne

- また明日 = “See you tomorrow (lit. again, tomorrow)”
mata ashita morrow)

- 失礼します = “Good bye (professional) (lit. shitsurei shimasu sorry for being rude)”

- 申し訳ありません = “I’m sorry” (formal, often moushiwake arimasen used in stores when the clerk can’t do something for you)

- お先に失礼します = “Good bye (professional, osaki ni shitsure shimasu when you’re leaving first)”

- 行きます = “See you (later) (Actually: I’m ittekimasu leaving but will be right back)”

- いってらっしゃい = “Take care (Actually: itterasshai please go and come back)”

- ただいま = “I’m home (e.g. family)” tadaima

- お帰りなさい = “Welcome home”
okaerinasai

- 久しぶり = “Long time, no see”
hisashiburi

- お邪魔します = “Sorry for the disturbance
ojamashimasu
(when entering a home)” (^{disturbance/obstacle} 邪魔 jama)

Meeting people

- お名前は 何 です か = “What is your name?”
onamae wa nan desu ka

- はじめまして = “Nice to meet you” (for the first hajimemashite
time)

- 元気 です か = “How are you (feeling)?”
genki desu ka

- よろしく おねがいします = “Nice to meet yoroshiku onegaishimasu
you/I look forward to working with you” (more formal, for introductions or asking favors)

- 暇 な 時 に 何 を する の = “What do you do in hima na toki ni nani o suri no your spare time?”

- 趣味 は 何 = “What is your hobby?”
shumi wa nani

- どの くらい やって る の = “How long have you been doing it for?”

- 私達 は 5年前 に 会って、以来 付き合っ てる
watashitachi wa gonenmai ni atte, irai tsukiatte iru
= “We met 5 years ago and have been dating ever since”

- 君 に 会って 良かった = “I’m glad I met you”
kimi ni atte yokatta

- 何 の 話 を し てる ん です か = “What are you nan no hanashi o shiterun desu ka talking about?” (curiosity, not spite)

Common sentences

- 何 を お勧め します か = “What would you rec-nani o osusumeshimasuka ommend?”

- 5番 を ください = “I’ll take number 5, please”
goban o kudasai
(like menu item)

- 焼酎 の 第二 の 選択 肢 を ください = “Give shouchuu no daini no sentakushi o kudasai me the second option of shochu”

- お茶を売りますか = “Do you sell tea?”
ocha o urimasuka
- いただきます = “Thank you for the meal” (before eating) itadakimasu
- ご馳走様でした = “Thank you for the meal” (after eating) gochisou sama deshita
- 聞いていただき/くれてありがとう = “Thank you for listening” (lit. thank you for giving me your listening)
kiite itadaki/kurete arigatou
- タクシー乗り場はどこですか = “Where is the taxi (place for boarding vehicles)?”
takushii noriba wa doko desu ka
- 私を手伝ってくれますか = “Can you please help me?”
watashi o tetsudatte kuremasuka
- このお金を円に変更してくれますか = “Could you change this money to yen, please?”
kono okane o en ni henkoushite kuremasuka
- 滞在期間は = “How long will you be staying (in Japan)?” (滞在 and 期間) stay (noun) period/length of time taizai kikan wa taizai kikan
- 僕の日本語の先生になれませんか = “Won’t you become my Japanese teacher?”
boku no nihongo no sensei ni naremasenka
- どっちかを選ぶってのは難しいはね = “It’s difficult to choose one or the other, huh?”
docchika erabu tte iu no wa muzukashii ha ne
- 準備できたか = “Are you ready?” (note use of できる)
junbi dekitaka
- あなたの電話を使ってくれますか = “Can I use your phone?”
anata no denwa o tsukatte kuremasuka
- 気を付けて = “Be careful”
ki o tsukete
- 仕方がない = “It cannot be helped”
shikatanai
- おめでとう = “Congratulations”
- 色々教えていただいてありがとう = “Thank you for teaching me all these (various) things.” Note the use of いただく to say “I’m receiving the teaching” iroiro oshiete itadaite arigatou
- これまでの事、全部ありがとう = “Thank you for everything (up until now/so far)”
kore made no koto, zenbu arigatou
- あの女は何を言っていたか = “What was that woman saying?”
ano onna wa nani o itte ita ka
- 話すてどういう意味ですか = What does “話す” mean?
hanasu te dou iu imi desu ka
- 寿司に病み付き = “I am hooked on sushi”
sushi ni yamitsuki
- 確り食べて = “Eat well/eat your fill”
shikkari tabete
- ウニちょっと口に合わない = “I don’t like sea urchin” (lit. it doesn’t quite fit in my mouth)
uni chotto kuchi ni awanai
- 和食所に行く度に、割り箸を家へ持って帰ります = “Whenever I go to a Japanese restaurant, I bring the (disposable) chopsticks home”
washokusho ni iku tabi ni, waribashi o ie e motte kaerimasu
- 頭は確かか = “Are you insane?” (lit. are you sure of your head?)
atama wa tashika ka
- 頭が真白い = “Head went completely blank”
atama ga masshiroi
- ある意味で = In a sense
aru imi de
In a sense, I have a question (ある意味で、質問がある)
aru imi de, shitsumon ga aru
- お腹が減ってて = “I am hungry” (lit. my stomach is decreasing/empty, could also use 腹)
onaka ga hette (i)te hara
- お腹空いた = “I am hungry” (lit. my stomach is void)
onaka suita
- 水族館に連れて行って = “Take me to the aquarium”
suizokukan ni tsurete itte
- お話があります = “We need to talk” (lit. there is/I have a story/something to say)
ohanashi ga arimasu
- 余計なお世話 = “None of your concern” (lit. too much help)
yokeina osewa
- あなたの自身をファック = “Fuck yourself”
anata no jishin o faku
- いらっしやいます = “Welcome (to our store)”
irasshaimasu
- すみません = “Excuse me, I’m sorry”
sumimasen
- ごめん(なさい) = “I’m sorry”
gomen (nasai)

- 助けてください = “Please help me”
tasukete kudasai
- 平気 = “no problem” (lit. unconcern)
heiki
- どうでも いい = “I don’t care/whatever”
dou demo ii
- 私は 現在 日本語 を 話す 方法 を 学んでいます
watashi wa genzai hanasu houhou o manande imasu = “I’m currently learning how to speak Japanese”
- 日本 と 和食 が 好き だから 日本 に 住みたい nihon to washoku ga suki dakara nihon ni sumitai のですが、日本 に 住んだら 日本語 を 話さなきゃ
no desu ga, nihon ni sundara nihongo o hanasanakya = “I like Japan and Japanese food so I want to live in Japan, but if I live in Japan, I need to speak Japanese”
- でも、熟練しません = “However, I am not demo, jukurenshimasen skilled (at it)”
- わかりました = “I understand”
wakarimashita
- わかりましたか = “Do you understand?”
wakarimashita ka
- わかりません = “I do not understand”
wakarimasen
- ゆっくり 言って ください = “Please go/speak
yukkuri itte kudasai more slowly”
- もう 一度 言って ください = “Please repeat mou ichido itte kudasai
once more” (一度 / ^{once} / ^{also/another/already/more} もう) ichido mou
- ちょっと 待って ください = “Please wait a bit”
chotto matte kudasai
- 最近 大学院 を 済みました = “I recently finsaikin daigakuin o sumimashita ished graduate school”
- 休暇 に 日本 に 来ました = “I came to Japan on kyuuka ni nihon ni kimashita vacation”
- 東京 の 行き方 を 教えてください = “Could toukyou no ikikata o oshiete kudasai
you tell me the directions to Tokyo, please?”
- 料金は いくら ですか = “How much will it ryoukin wa ikura desuka cost?” (as in fees)
- バス乗車まで約15分待ち = “Wait approxbasu jousha made yaku juugofun machi imately 15 minutes to get on the bus” (lit. minutes until boarding the bus)
- 店 は 開いて ありますか = “Is the shop open?”
mise wa aite arimasuka
- どこまで 行く の = “How far must we go?”
doko made iku no
- これで 時間 の 問題 だ = “It’s just a matter of sore de jikan no mondai da time now”
- なりゆきで = “It just happens” (not actually nariyukide 100% certain of this)
- 既に 箸 を 持っています = “I already have suden hashi o motte imasu chopsticks”
- 聞いて ください = “Please listen”
kiite kudasai
- 十 ページ を 見て ください = “Please look at juu peiji o mite kudasai page 10”
- あの テレビ 番組 超 ウケる = “That TV show ano terebi bangumi chou ukeru is super funny”
- いつも 5 時 に 仕事 が 終わります = “I always itsumo goji ni shigoto ga owarimasu finish working at 5”
- 何 て 言ったら いい が 分からない = “I don’t nan te ittara ii ga wakaranai know what to say” (lit. I don’t know that which would be good if I said it)
- やれやれ = “phew”
- 仕事 の こと で 頭 が いっぱい = “Work is conshigoto no koto de atama ga ippai suming my thoughts/that’s all I can think about”
- アメリカ に 来て ください。案内しますよ
amerika ni kite kudasai. annai shimasu yo = “You should visit America. I’ll show you around!”
- 暗い 所 ちょっと 怖い んですが、まだ 行きます
kurai tokoro chotto kowai-n desu ga = “I’m a little scared of the dark, but I’m still going”
- キャップ の 切り口 で ケガ を する こと が あります
kyappu no kirikuchi de kega o suru koto ga arimasu ので ご注意ください = “Please note that you node gochuui kudasai can hurt by the cut end of the cap”
- 部屋 が 汚い から 掃除 しない じゃ = “My room is heya ga kitanai kara souji shinakya dirty so I have to clean it”
- あの、私、残念ながら 小用 が ございます ので、
ano, watashi, zannen-nagara shouyou ga gozaimasu node,

このバーで失礼しますね = “Ah, unfortunately there’s a small matter I need to attend to, so I’ll take my leave from the bar”

- その悪い知らせは残念ながら本当だ =
sono warui shirase wa zannen-nagara hontou da “Unfortunately, the bad news is true”
- 彼奴の事は気にしないよ = “Don’t worry aitsu no koto wa ki ni shinai yo about him”
- ふざけている暇はない = “We don’t have fuzakete iru hima wa nai time to fool around”

2.1.1 Conversation examples

Seeing a movie

- Did you see Star Wars?
スターウォーズを見たの suta uoozu o mita no
- How was it? Was it interesting?
どうだった? 面白かった?
dou datta? omoshirokatta?
- It was boring. It would be good if you didn’t see it つまらない。やめた方がいいよ tsumaranai. yameta hou ga ii yo
- Maybe I’ll go see it, too?
私もその映画を見ようかな?
watashi mo sono eiga o miyou kana?
- 見に行ったら見ればいいよ = eh, you could mi ni itte mireba ii yo go see it if you want, but I don’t necessarily recommend it/you’ll have to take responsibility for seeing it (lit. It would be good if you tried to go and see it)

Going to a restaurant

- What do you think about that restaurant?
あのレストランってどう思うの (って is ano resutoran tte dou omou no
used to mean “about”)
- I think it’s meh イマイチだと思う imaichi da to omou
- Why do you think that?
何でそう思う?
nande sou omou?
- Because the food is good but the service is bad 食べ物美味しいけどサービスは悪いからね tabemono wa oishii kedo saabisu wa warui kara ne
- Well, I’m treating you today じゃ、今日は俺おごる
jya, kyou ha ore ogoru

No, you really don’t need to do that

- 無理しなくていいよ
muri shinakute ii yo
- When do you think would be good to go?
いつがいいと思うの itsu ga ii to omou no
- I’m free now 今暇している ima hima shiteiru
- Thank you for taking care (of me) 気に掛けてくれてありがとう ki ni kakete kurete arigatou
- It’s the thought that counts その気持ちだけで十分 sono kimochi dake de juupun

Making a bet over a game

Would you like to make a bet (over this game)?

- 何か賭けるか nanika kakeru ka
- I still don’t know what I will bet まだ何を賭けるが分かりません mada nani o kakeru ga wakarimasen
- I will explain everything from the beginning 最初から全て説明します saisho kara subete setsumei-shimasu
- 「将棋王一度負ければ、普通の人になる」
“shougi ou ichido makereba, futsuu no hito ni naru” というがあります
- There is a saying, “If the Shogi champion loses
even once, they become a normal person”
- In other words, losing is unacceptable (lit. unforgivable) つまり一度も負けることは許せない tsumari, ichido mo makeru koto wa yurusenai
- Well, can you just tell me already?
じゃもう教えてくれもいいんじゃねえか ja mou oshiete kure mo ii n ja nee ka
- Can I just bet what I always bet?
いつも賭けている物ではだめですか itsumo kakete iru mono dewa dame desuka
- More than that, (I’m more interested in learning) what you’d want if you win それよりそちが勝った時に欲しい物があるか sore yori sochi ga katta toki ni hoshii mono ga aru ka
- I haven’t really given much thought to anything other than Shogi 将棋のこと以外あまり考えたことはありません
Shogi no koto igai amari kangaeta koto ga arimasen
- I will (try to) think of something after I win 勝った後に考えてみます katta ato ni kangaete mimasu

2.2 Expressions

Expressions

nanji	what time
nanijin	person of what nationality
ano, etto	“um” (to show uncertainty or hesitation, e.g. wanting to avoid being rude or interrupting someone)
hai, ee, un	yes (in decreasing formality)
iee, iya, uun	no (in decreasing formality) iee could also be “don’t mention it”
sou	so
sou desu	that is correct
sou desu ka	is that so?
sou desu ne	that’s right/let me see
dou	how
— dou desu ka	how about ...?/how is ...?
いかが	how about ...?
demo	but
本当 hontou	true/truely
ため tame	for (as in for someone)
用 you	for (as in for a purpose)
-sai	years old
chigau	that’s wrong (not polite)
chigaimasu	that’s wrong (polite)
jaa	well.../then, in that case, ...
doumo	indeed/very much (adverb) put in front of arigato or sumimasen , it emphasizes the second word. Alone, it means “thank you”
— をください o kudasai	please give me ____
— をお願いします o onegaishimasu	____ please (for more abstract concepts, e.g. repairs)
douzo	here it is (polite, e.g. menu); Also, when waiting for someone else to give over something (e.g. a phone operator would ask for your name) Also, “After you”
お願いします onegaishimasu	please
tokorode	by the way

Expressions continued

だから dakara	so/therefore
つまり	in other words
方法 houhou	method
まさか masaka	__ 方法 = “how to __”
又は matawa	no way
又 matawa	or
ついて tsuite	about/regarding <small>discussion about politics</small> 政治についての議論 <small>seiji ni tsuite no giron</small> What are you talking about? 何について話していますか <small>nani ni tsuite hanashite imasuka</small>
半端ない hanpanai	very good (lit. not half-assed)
相変わらず aikawarazu	as usual (e.g. as usual, I’m busy)
面倒くさい mendoukusai	omg/what a pain
気を付けて ki o tsukete	be careful/take care
良かった yokatta	good/oh good
是非 zeshi	by all means/I’d love to/certainly
のみ dake	only only/just (e.g. お茶だけをください) just tea, please
すら sura	even Won’t you tell me even your name? e.g. 名すら教えていただけませんか <small>na sura oshiete itadakemasenka</small>
しか shika	nothing but (more intense version of “only”) Used with negative tense, e.g. You can only think about yourself 自分のことしか考えることができない <small>jibun no koto shika kangaeru koto ga dekinai</small>
こうして	thus (lit. in this way)
自業自得 jigoujitoku	What goes around comes around You reap what you sow
とにかく	anyway (とにかく 買った) <small>I bought it anyway</small> <small>tonikaku kacchatta</small>
関係ない kankeinai	none of your business (関係) <small>relation</small> <small>kankei</small>

2.3 Saying “please”

Ways to say “please” from least to most formal:

Casual

- ください = Can be used when asking for an item (e.g. at a restaurant). Translates to “[command], please.” Note how you’re not actually asking, your commanding politely.
- くれます = Same as ください, except a bit more respectful. Still quite casual. It would be better to use ください because it is more common and I don't completely understand くれ れます

More Respectful

- くれますか = Translates to “Can you do ___, please?”
kuremasuka
- もらえますか = More respectful. Also translates to “Can you do ___, please?”
moraemasuka

Most Respectful

- くださいますか = Translates to “Can you do ___, please?”
kudasaimasuka
- いただけますか = The most respectful. Also translates to “Can you do ___, please?”
itadakemasuka

See how this mimics that of the Want section, where ください < もらう < いただく. You can also see how, for example, いただけますか uses e instead of i, which is done when you are saying you can/can't do something (see Potential form).

3 Adjectives/Adverbs

3.1 Grammar

Adjectives

- Two types: i and na adjectives.

Adverbs

- Can be formed from adjectives by replacing い with く.

slow slowly
– 遅い -> 遅く osoi osoku
good well
– いい -> よく both derived from 良
ii yoku yo/i

3.2 Dictionary

Adjectives

元気 genki	fine/healthy/good (state of being)
大丈夫 daijoubu	alright
いい ii	good
良い yo/i i	good (slightly more formal)
悪い warui	bad
大きい ookii	big
小さい chiisai	small
高い takai	high/tall/expensive (taka = “high”)
安い yasui	cheap (yasu = “low”)
低廉 teiren	inexpensive
早い hayai	early (or fast, depending on context)
遅い osoi	late (as in arrival)
沢山 / たくさん takusan takusan	a lot (for nouns) e.g. a lot of money
何分 / いくつか nanibun ikutsuka	some
凄い sugoi	amazing/great/terrible
難しい muzukashii	difficult
簡単 kantan	easy/simple
美味しい oishii	delicious
うまい umai	good/top-notch/splendid
最近 saikin	recently
約 / 頃 yaku koro	about/approximately (see Numbers)
ほど / くらい
着々 chakuchaku	steadily (着) arrive
素晴らしい subarashii	wonderful
重要 juuyou	important

Comparisons/relativities

すぎる	too (much of something)
最悪 saiaku	worst (最 悪) bad most waru
抜き nuki	without (麺 抜きで) without noodles men nuki de

More adjectives

色々 iroiro	various (also: various things)
忙しい isogashii	busy
公共 koukyou	public
他 hoka/-ta	other (e.g. 他人 ^{other people} ta no hito)
別 betsu	different/separate/distinction
十分 juubun	sufficient/satisfactory/enough
確か tashika	sure/certain (確かに ^{certainly} tashikani)
大変 taihen	hard, grueling, tiring
イマイチ imaichi	meh
中級 chuukyuu	intermediate (level)
超 chou	super _
ウケる ukeru	funny
無駄 muda	useless/waste
無駄に muda ni	wastefully
無駄にする muda ni suru	to waste
必要 hitsuyou	necessary
無理 muri	impossible
大体 daitai	generally
実力者 jitsuryokusha	talented person
つまらない	boring
わざと	intentional
残念 ^{adj} / 残念ながら ^{adv} zannen / zannen na gara	unfortunate(ly)
微妙 (に) bimyou	subtle(ly)/slight(ly) slight negative connotation can be used as a response to ^{What do you think of these clothes?} e.g. この服はどう思う kono fuku ha dou omou

People/qualities

美 bi	beauty (noun)
美しい [—] utsuku shii	beautiful _
美しい髪 utsukushii kami	beautiful hair
美しい目 utsukushii me	beautiful eyes
美人 bijin	beautiful person
可愛い kawaii	cute
楽しい tanoshii	fun
優しい yasashii	kind/friendly
格好いい kakkouii	cool (stylish, etc.)
社交的 shakou teki	sociable
大人しい otonashii	shy/quite
健康的 kenkou teki	healthy (^{healthy food} 健康的な食べ物 ^{kenkoutekina tabemono})
見た目重視 mitame juushi	focus on appearances
顔食い menkui	only dates hot people (lit. face eater) mostly refers to men
美け bike	pretty/pretty face (mostly refers to girls)
不細工 busaiku	unsightly, homely, plain, ugly
人気 ninki	popular (^{popular person} 人気者 ^{ninkimono})

Emotions/states of being

気持ち kimochi	feeling/mood (emotional)
気分 kibun	feeling/mood (physical)
気持ち悪い komochi warui	Feeling bad (physically)
感じ kanji	(how one is) feeling I feel happy (嬉しいで感じ) ureshii de kanji from -ru verb 感じる
幸せ shiawase	happiness/good fortune
嬉しい ureshii	happy
悲しい kanashii	sad
怖い kowai	scared
寂しく sabishiku	lonely
忙しい isogashii	busy
酷い hidoi	terrible
キモい kimoi	bad/creepy (not physically) Made from an abbreviation of 気持ち悪い and is described as the opposite of 格好いい kakkouiii
空気読めない kuuki yomenai ケイワイ	airheaded/cannot read the situation
狂しい kuruoshii	crazy/insane/lunatic
金持ち kanemochi	rich
恥ずかしい hazukashii	embarrassed
懐かしい natsukashii	nostalgic

Temperature/environment

暑い atsui	hot
adj noun 冷たい / 寒い tsumetai samui	cold
暖かい ataakai	warm
暗い kurai	dark
自然 shizen	nature/natural
汚い kitanai	dirty

Note that らしい can sometimes be added to the end of words to say “like _”, e.g. それは君らしい
That is (so) like you sore wa kimirashii

The kanji 良 can be read as both yo and i and can be written both as kanji or as hiragana. However, both the kanji form and the yo form are more formal than the i form. There are also a few times when they can't be exchanged, such as in よかった (it was good/good (as a standalone statement)).

Adverbs

大抵 taitei	usually/almost/mostly
通常 tsuujou	normally
よく yoku	often
時々 tokidoki	sometimes
度に tabi ni	every time
現在 genzai	currently
しばらく shibaraku	for a while
かなり kanari	(is) quite/rather/pretty _ the pollen is pretty awful e.g. 花粉がかなり酷い kafun ga kanari hidoi
とても totemo	very [adverb] e.g. very quickly
すごく sugoku	very (interchangeable with とても) Used when things exceed expectations
ちょっと chotto	a little
少し sukoshi	a little/somewhat (more formal)
あまり + neg. verb amari	not very much
全然 + neg. verb zenzen	never/not at all
全 zen	all (part of word)
全部 zenbu	all (of something) e.g. 全部の猫 zenbu no neko Not used with “people”
全て subete	all (of something) used with “people” e.g. 全ての人
ゆっくり yukkuri	slowly
一人で hitori de	alone
一緒 issho	together
マジ maji	seriously awesome seriously (マジ半端ない) maji hanpanai
突然 totsuzen	suddenly/abruptly/all at once
確り shikkari	firm, steady, reliable
本来 honrai	originally/essentially/primarily
既に suden	already
以来 irai	since/henceforth

Note that 大抵 (^{taitei}“in general/usually”) is used when talking about concepts in general whereas よく (^{yoku}“often/usually”) is used when talking about frequency. They can be interchanged somewhat, and the usage isn’t all that strict, but you’ll notice 大抵 being used in cases such as “For the most part, blah blah blah.”

Examples:

- 通常, 子供は英語と日本語を学びます
tsuujou, kodomo wa eigo to nihongo o manabimasu = “Normally, children learn English and Japanese”
- 週末はたいてい何をしますか
Shuumatsu wa taitei nani o shimasuka
= “What do you usually do on weekends?”
- 私はよく週末に居酒屋に行きます
watashi wa yoku shuumatsu ni izakaya ni ikimasu
= “I often go to bars on weekends”

通常 is used in the same context as 大抵, but 通常 means “normally” as opposed to “usually/in general/for the most part.”

4 Grammar

4.1 Particles

A particle is a part of speech that connects parts of sentences. It doesn’t usually do anything other than link words. For example, “up” in “tidy up the room” is a particle because “up” doesn’t mean anything but helps convey the meaning of the sentence.

Note that sometimes particles are dropped in spoken language.

Sentence structure is quite flexible and can be formatted in multiple different ways. Usually, noun-particle combinations are followed by adjectives/verbs, which are followed by a sentence-final particle, such as ka, yo, or ne. A typical sentence is structured like:

topic は time place で object を verb

I will study Japanese in the library today

e.g. 私は今日図書館で日本語を勉強します
Watashi wa kyō toshokan de nihongo o benkyōshimasu

Similarly,

topic は frequency time に goal へ verb

I often return home at around seven o'clock

e.g. 私はよく七時頃うちへ帰ります
Watashi wa yoku shichijigoro uchi e kaerimasu

4.1.1 は (wa)

Serves as the topic of discussion. Can often be interchanged with が (see “wa” vs “ga”). Cannot follow question words, like dore or nani.

Examples:

- 車は私が運転しました = “As for the car, I was the one who drove it/I drove the car” kuruma wa watashi ga untenshimashita
- たなかさんはお金を持っています = “Tanaka-san has money (he is rich)”
Tanaka-san wa okane o motte imasu

4.1.2 が (ga)

Used to show the subject of the sentence. A more in-depth discussion is shown in “wa” vs “ga”. Can also mean “but.”

Examples:

- あそこに図書館があります = “There is a library over there”
asoko ni toshokan ga arimasu
- たなかさんがお金を持っています = “Tanaka has money (on his person right now)”
Tanaka-san ga okane o motte imasu
- 行きたくないですが、まだ行っています = “I don’t want to go, but I’m still going”
ikitakunai desu ga, mada itte imasu

4.1.3 の (no)

Used to connect two nouns. Very versatile because it can be used to describe attributes of objects, show ownership, and so on. no also separates parts of phone numbers. When using の, the main idea comes after the qualifier. Also used for informal questions, in which case it’s placed at the end of the sentence like か.

Examples:

- New York daigaku no gakusei = “A student at New York University”
- Takeshi-san no denwa bangou = “Takeshi’s phone number”
- Daigaku no sensei = “College professor”
- Nihongo no gakusei = “A student who studies the Japanese language”
- Kaneki-kun no okaasan wa koukou no sensei desu = “Kaneki-kun’s mother is a high school teacher”
- Kyoushitsu no naka = “Inside the classroom” (no naka = “in/inside of”)
- Kono tatemono no naka ni wa ningen ga arimasen = “There are no humans in this building”

4.1.4 を (o)

Links verbs with direct objects. Placed after a direct object before the verb being done on it.

Examples:

- watashi wa koohii o nomimasu = “I drink coffee”
- ongaku o kikimasu = “I listen to music”
- terebi o mimasu = “I watch TV”

4.1.5 も (mo)

Means “too”, such as “Bob, too, is hungry” or “She bought shoes, too.” も replaces は, が, and を but not other particles like に.

Examples:

- ボブは日本人です。スーザンも日本人です。
Bob wa nihonjin desu. Suusan mo nihonjin desu.
= “Bob is Japanese. Susan is, too.”
- メアリーさんは昨日シャツを買いました。
Mary-san wa kinou shatsu o kaimashita.
靴も買いました = “Mary bought a shirt
Kutsu mo kaimashita yesterday. She also bought shoes”
- トミーさんと私は先週京都に行きました。
Tommy-san to watashi wa senshuu ni ikimashita.
大阪にも行きました。 = “Tommy and I went Osaka ni mo ikimashita.
to Kyoto last week. We went to Osaka, too.”

4.1.6 と (to)

Commonly used for “and” or “together with” e.g. “I took a book (together) with me” or “I bought a book and a pen”). It is also used to quote relative clauses, i.e. talk about what someone was saying or thinking. Note that って is used to mean “about.”

Examples:

With

- 私は本と鉛筆を買った = “I bought a book
watashi wa hon to enpitsu o katta and a pen”
- 私はあなたと一緒にいきます = “I will go watashi wa anata to issho ni ikimasu (together) with you”

Quote

- 今日、僕は大学に行かないと思う = “I
kyou, boku wa daigaku ni ikanai to omou think I will not go to college today”
- 彼はあなたに何と言ったか = “What did he kare wa anata ni nani to ittaka say to you?”
What do you think about that restaurant?
- あのレストランってどう思うの
ano resutoran tte dou omou no

4.1.7 で (de)

Indicates:

- Where the event described by the verb takes place.
- Says what instruments are used for the verb (e.g. with chopsticks).
- Says how much something cost (e.g. I bought this for 500 yen).
- “In” or “within” when talking about time (e.g. we’ll arrive in 1 hour) or scope (e.g. more than anything in the world).
- Used to mean “because of” or “due to” (e.g. I was absent because I had a cold).
- Used to say “and” for [noun and verb] sentences (e.g. I am a student and I study Japanese).

Examples:

- watashi wa toshokan de hon o yomimasu = “I read books at the library” (location)
- watashi wa uchi de terebi o mimasu = “I will watch TV at home” (location)
- 箸でご飯を食べます = “I eat my meals with hashi de gohan o tabemasu chopsticks” (instrument)
- 日本語で話します = “I talk in Japanese” (innihongo de hanashimasu strument)
- 私はバスで駅に行きました = “I went to the watashi wa basu de eki ni ikimashita station by bus” (instrument)
- テレビで映画を見ました = “I saw a movie on terebi de eiga o mimashita
TV” (instrument)
- 私は学生で日本語を勉強します = “I am
watashi wa gakusei de nihongo o benkyoushimasu a student and I study Japanese” (and)
- 私は二十分で着きます = “I will arrive in 20
watashi wa nijuupun de tsukimasu minutes”

4.1.8 に (ni)

Multiple uses including:

- The goal towards which things move
- The time an event takes place
- The recipient of an action

Not used for:

In these cases, simply drop に and continue with sentence

- Regular intervals (e.g. sometimes, often, rarely)
- When using “when” (e.g. “When I go, ...”)
- Time relative to the present (e.g. today, tomorrow)

- When using ^{approximately} 頃 (頃 replaces に)

Optional for:

- Talking about parts of the day (e.g. this morning, at night, this weekend)

Note the difference between に and で: で shows where something takes place (e.g. “we will run at the park”) whereas に shows where something is headed to (e.g. “we will run to the park”).

Examples with に:

- 私は 今日 学校 に 行きません = “I will not go to school today” (movement)
watashi wa kyou gakkou ni ikimasen
- watashi wa uchi ni kaerimasu = “I will return home” (movement)
- gogo juuichiji ni nemasu = “I will go to bed at 11 o’clock PM” (time)
- 私は 毎日 午前 九 時半 に 起きます
watashi maie ni chugosenkyuuji han o
= “I get up at 9:30 AM every day”
- nichiyoubi ni Kyoto ni ikimasu = “I will go to Kyoto on Sunday” (movement + time)
- 私は 友人 に 贈り物 を 与えた = “I gave my friend a gift” (recipient) watashi wa yuujin ni okurimono o ataeta
- 来月 の 末 に 京都 へ 行きます = “I will go to Kyoto at the end of next month”
raigetsu no sue ni kyouto e ikimasu

Examples without に:

- 明日 来ます = “I will come tomorrow”
ashita kimasu
- 毎晩 テレビ を 見ます = “I watch TV every night/evening”
maiban terebi o mimasu
- いつ 行きますか = “When will you go?”
itsu ikimasu ka
- 午後 十一時 頃 寝ます = “I will go to bed around 11 o’clock PM.”
gogo juuichiji goro nemasu

Examples with optional に:

- 私は 朝 (に) 新聞 を 読みます = “I read the newspaper in the morning”
watashi wa asa (ni) shinbun o yomimasu
- あなた は 週末 (に) 何 を しますか = “What do (or will) you do on weekends?”
anata wa shuumatsu (ni) nani o shimasu ka

4.1.9 へ (e)

Also indicates the goal of movement (like the first objective of ni). Note the pronunciation is “e,” not “he.”

Examples:

- watashi wa kyou gakkou e ikimasen = “I will not go to school today” (movement)
- watashi wa uchi e kaerimasu = “I will return home” (movement)

4.1.10 か (ka)

Added at the end of a sentence, this makes the sentence a question. か can be thought of as the equivalent of a question mark. Example: どうです か = “How is it?”

4.1.11 ね (ne)

Added at the end of a sentence, this means “right?” like “This is cooked, right?” Also used in expressions when you imply you want some recognition (e.g. そうですね = “Is that so?”).

Examples:

- Kore wa niku ja nai desu ne = “This is not meat, is it?”
- Lee san no senkou wa bungakou desu ne = “Ms. Lee, your major is literature, right?”

4.1.12 よ (yo)

Added at the end of a sentence, this means “I tell you/let me assure you,” like “Mr. Smith is leaving, in case you were wondering.” Also, for exclamation (like “!”).

Examples:

- Tonkatsu wa sakana ja nai desu yo = “Let me assure you, ‘tonkatsu’ is not fish.”

4.1.13 でも (demo)

The word でも usually means “but,” however it can also be used as a particle. It’s meaning changes depending on what it’s placed after.

Noun/adjective/condition

- At (condition/adjective) (e.g. at least, at best)

I can read a book for at least an hour
 – 私は 最低 でも 一時間 本 を 読める
watashi wa saitei demo ichijikan hon o yomu least / lowest (最低) saitei

The meaning doesn’t matter/it doesn’t mean anything
 – どう いう こと でも ない (lit.
dou iu koto demo nai not whatever the meaning)

- Even (if)/no matter how

He works even on Sundays
- 彼は日曜日でも働きます
kare wa nichiyoubi demo hatarakimasu

I'm going to leave even if it's raining
- 雨でも出発します
ame demo shuppatsushimasu

Mt. Fuji can be seen even from Tokyo
- 東京からでも富士山見えます
toukyou kara demo fujisan miemasu

- Or something

I'd like to drink coffee or something
- コーヒーでも飲みたい
koohii demo nomitai

- How about (when making an offer)

How about going to a movie?
- 映画でも見ますか
eiga demo mimasu ka

Question/indefinite word

- ~ever (e.g. whatever, whenever)

Any time (whenever) is good
- いつでもいい
itsu demo ii

I don't care/however is good
- どうでもいい
dou demo ii

I will eat anything
- 何でも食べます
nandemo tabemasu

4.2 “wa” vs “ga”

The particle は actually marks the topic of discussion, not the subject. The topic is a non-grammatical concept, so it doesn't technically have an equivalent in English. The particle が, on the other hand, is the subject of the sentence. You should think of it such that words marked with が stake their claim on a sentence and shows its ownership. While は and が can often be used interchangeably while still being grammatically correct, they have different meanings/implications.

The topic is essentially what is being discussed. For example, one could say Kaneki kun, shuumatsu wa taitei nani o shimasuka (“Kaneki, what do you usually do on weekends?”) or Kyou wa Kyoto ni ikimasu (“I’m going to Kyoto today”). In this way, we can see that は can promote other expressions (in these examples, both were time expressions) as the topic of each sentence. It’s sort of like saying, for example, “Let’s talk about weekends; what do you do on weekends?” or “Let me say what I will do today; I will go to Kyoto” respectively. This is an important distinction for は. Likewise, は can be used in order to direct the listener’s attention, thereby inviting a comment/completion of the sentence by the listener. For example, Bangohan wa (“How about dinner?”) does not stand as a subject or time (in fact, it’s a direct object), but its use before は means that it is inviting the listener to respond.

The subject, on the other hand, is what is doing the action. While は says what we’re talking about, が will pull out a particular object as being the highlight of the sentence or to show emphasis. For example, consider the sentences below:

“Who are you?”

私はデボンです watashi wa Devon desu
“Who is Devon?”

私がデボンです
watashi ga Devon desu

Note how the first sentence is a general question and requires no emphasis. The answer to the second question, however, points out that “I am Devon (not the other person)”. Likewise, we could ask:

“What do you think of Japan?”

日本は面白いです (Japan is interesting)

nihon wa omoshiroi desu
“Which country is interesting?”

日本が面白いです
nihon ga omoshiroi desu

See how the second answer is implying that “it is Japan that’s interesting (as opposed to elsewhere).” This is why が is used for question words, like だれ が.

Further, は is often use when contrasting different things. For example, the sentence watashi wa chikoku shita would translate to “I was late” but it could have two different implications: (1) used in a discussion centered around the speaker, or (2) used when pointing out that some other person wasn’t late (or it wasn’t known if they were late). This seems confusing (and it is), but this is why topics are often left out of sentences if they can be. When they are included, sometimes the meaning of the speaker can be somewhat unclear.

A good example of this is to consider trying to give someone a compliment. If you were to say 目はきれいですね (your eyes are beautiful), that ^{me wa kirei desu ne} could imply that their other features were mediocre. However, if you said 目がきれいですね instead, it ^{me ga kirei desu ne} would just be a matter-of-fact statement and there would not be any room for confusion.

が is used when comparing different things. As opposed to は, which says “A has something, but B does not,” が instead says “A has something, and B may to a more/less degree.” This is why が is used in the common comparison phrase ^{B is more ... than A} A より B のほうが
^{A yori B no hou ga ...}

This difference of contrasting (は) and comparing (が)

is specifically why は has that added implication of that the opposite is true of something not mentioned in the sentence (like “I was late [but he wasn’t]” or “Your eyes are beautiful [but the rest of you isn’t].”)

When in doubt, you can use an (imperfect) test, the removal/comma test. For example, if you can remove the noun-particle part of a sentence without losing meaning or if you can add a comma without it sounding weird, then は is probably the right particle. If removing the noun-particle part loses critical meaning or adding a comma makes it sound weird, you should probably use が. Again, this test isn’t perfect, but it helps you get an intuition for which to use.

For example, (watashi wa/ga) kuruma o untenshimasu could have the watashi wa/ga removed and would still convey the correct meaning; likewise, watashi, kuruma o untenshimasu still makes sense, so は would likely be acceptable. However, asoko ni (toshokan wa/ga) arimasu would lose all its meaning if the pair were removed; likewise, “there a library, is” doesn’t really make sense, so we use が.

Summary

は

- Marks the topic of a sentence
- Contrasts one noun against others (that don’t have the first’s quality)
- Used when the noun-particle combo can be left out without losing meaning (e.g. when elaborating on things already known to the listener)
- Examples:
 - 車は私が運転しました = “As for kuruma wa watashi ga untenshimashita the car, I was the one who drove it/I drove the car”
 - たなかさんはお金を持っています = Tanaka-san wa okane o motte imasu “Tanaka has money (he is rich)”
 - 予定はありますか = “Do you have any yotei wa arimasu ka plans?”

が

- Marks the subject of a sentence
- Compares multiple nouns that may or may not all have the same qualities
- Used to bring one noun in particular out from a group or add emphasis on the subject; separates/calls out one noun from others
- Used when the noun-particle combo cannot be left out without losing meaning (e.g. when answering “who drove the car?”)
- Used when adding new things/information to a conversation about a topic or when making a series of unrelated statements

- Used when describing things with adjectives or when using question words
- Marks objects of potential-form verbs (such as “can [verb]” or “able to [verb]”)
- Connects clauses with a meaning of “but” or “despite”
- Examples:

There is a library over there
– あそこ に 図書館 があります
asoko ni toshokan ga arimasu

Tanaka has money (on his person right now)
– たなかさん が お金 を 持っています
Tanaka-san ga okane o motte imasu

Do you have a plan?
– 予定 がありますか
yotei ga arimasu ka

When I was a child, I liked tempura more than sushi
– 子供の 時、寿司 より 天ぷら の ほうが 好き だった
kodomo no toki, sushi yori tempura no hou ga suki datta

4.3 And

“And” is somewhat tricky in Japanese because there is no single word to use. Rather, it depends on sentence structure:

Particles for and

Noun + noun	と
Verb + verb	~-te form of first verb Second verb’s tense defines first verb’s tense
Adjective + adjective	~te form of first adjective
Noun + verb	で
[Sentence]. And then, [sentence]	それから

Examples:

- 私は本と鉛筆を買った = “I bought a book watashi wa hon to enpitsu o katta and a pen”
- 私はあなたと一緒にいきます = “I will go watashi wa anata to issho ni ikimasu (together) with you”
- 私は晩御飯を食べてテレビを見ました = watashi wa bangohan o tabete terebi o mimashita “I ate dinner and watched TV”
- 私の犬は可愛くて小さいです = “My dog watashi no inu wa kawaikute chiisai desu is cute and small”
- 私は学生で日本語を勉強します = “I am watashi wa gakusei de nihongo o benkyoushimasu a student and I am studying Japanese”
- 我々は東京に行きました。
wareware wa Toukyou ni ikimashita.

Then, we went to Kyoto
それから、京都に行きました。
Sorekara, Kyouto ni ikimashita

4.4 Invitations

Invitations are formed using the negative present conjugation of a verb along with a question ending, i.e. -masenka. For example, to invite someone to lunch, you would say Hirugohan o tabemasenka = “Would you like to get lunch?” You would not use -masuka because that just becomes a question: Hirugohan o tabemasuka = “Do you eat lunch?”

4.5 Negations

There are many ways to do sentence negations, i.e. saying something is not the case. ja nai desu is the most colloquial. Ja is actually a contraction of de wa, and the phrase nai desu can be formally replaced with imasen or arimasen.

When negating a sentence of the form X wa Y desu, where X and Y are nouns, we can replace desu with ja nai desu. For example, Yamada san wa gakusei ja nai desu = “Mr. Yamada is not a student.”

The varying levels of formality mean that this sentence can also be written/spoken as:

Yamada san wa gakusei ja arimasen (more conservative speech style)

Yamada san wa gakusei de wa arimasen (formal, appropriate for writing)

Note that this does not work for adjectives, thus we cannot say Oishii ja nai desu when trying to say “That was not delicious.” Instead, we say Oishii nai desu (will be described in more detail later).

Examples:

- Takeshi-san wa amari benkyoushimasen = “Takeshi doesn’t study much”
- Watashi wa zenzen terebi o mimasen = “I never watch TV/I do not watch TV at all”

4.6 Questions

Question Words

何 nan/nani	what (e.g. kore wa nan desuka) nan is used before desu or a “counter”, such as ji . nani is used before a particle
どれ	which (one)
どの	which ____
どこ	where
だれ	who
だれの ____	whose ____
何故 / なんで naze	why (first is “what reason”)
どう	how/why/what (depends on context)
どうですか	how is it
どうして	what happened
何と	how
いつ	when
いくら	how much
いくつ	how many
どのぐらい	how long
どんな	what kind of

Adding a particle to the end of a question word converts it to a new word that answers the question with a particular amount. For the most part, the following particles have respective effects:

- も - all
- か - some
- でも - any

Some question words with particles

いつ	も	always (cannot mean “never”) To say never, use the past tense with こと (see examples)
いつ	か	someday/sometime
いつ	でも	whenever
何	も	nothing (isn’t used for “everything”)
何	か	something
何	でも	anything
誰	も	everybody
誰	か	somebody
誰	でも	anybody
いくつ	も	several
いくつ	か	some number of things
いくつ	でも	any number of things

Examples:

- How much is this?
これはいくらですか
Kore wa ikura desu ka

- How much is this watch?
この時計はいくらですか
Kono tokei wa ikura desu ka

That watch is 3,500 yen
その時計は三千五百円です
Sono tokei wa sanzengohyaku en desu

- Which one is your bag?
どれがあなたのカバンですか
Dore ga anata no kaban desu ka

- Which bag is yours?
Dono kaban ga anata no desu ka

- Which bag is this?
これはどのカバンですか
Kore wa dono kaban desu ka

- Whose bag is this?
これはだれのカバンですか
Kore wa dare no kaban desu ka

That is Susan's bag.
それはスーザンのカバンです
Sore wa Suusan no kaban desu

- What is your phone number?
電話番号は何ですか
(Anata no) denwa bangou wa nan desu ka

- Excuse me. What time is it right now?
すみません、今何時ですか
Sumimasen. Ima nanji desuka

It is 8:30 AM.
午前八時半です gozen hachiji han desu

- Have you ever been to Japan?
日本に行ったことがありますか
nihon ni itta koto ga arimasuka

- I have never been to Japan 日本に行ったことがない nihon ni itta koto ga nai

- どのくらいやってるの = “How long have you been doing it for?”

- どうですか = “How is it?”

- どうでしたか = “How was it?”

- どうやって = “How do you do it?”

- どうした = “What happened?”

- これでどうかな = “How about this/how is this?”

- 話すてどういう意味ですか = What does
hanasu te dou iu imi desu ka
“話す” mean?

“To speak” という意味です = “It means to
“To speak” to iu imi desu speak”

- どういうこと = “What do you mean/what is dou iu koto
this/what is going on?”

- 彼らの事をどうと思いましたか = “What karera no koto o dou to omoimashitaka did you think of them?”

4.6.1 When

There are multiple words for “when” depending on the situation, described below.

When

itsu	Only for questions
toki	Specifying when something took place

For toki, the format is “<clause 1> toki, <clause 2>.” The first clause should always be the when clause; this means that the following two sentences are equivalent: “I ate a lot when I was in Japan” == “When I was in Japan, I ate a lot”.

Also, you cannot use either desu or the masu conjugation of a verb in the first clause.

Finally, since toki is a noun, use no to connect it to other nouns.

You don’t have to change clause 1 to be in the past tense if you don’t want to, but if you want to, you can using datta. Doing so, you will need to drop the no.

Examples:

itsu

- いつ日本に来ますか = “When will you come Itsu nihon ni kimasuka to Japan?”
- いつ日本語を勉強し始めたの = “When did Itsu nihongo o benkyoushi hajimeta no
you start learning Japanese?”
- じゃあ、いつがいい = “Then, when is good for Jaa, itsu ga ii
you?”
- いつから働きますか = “When do/will you itsu kara hatarakimasu ka start work?”
- いつまで日本にいるの = “How long/until itsu made nihon ni iru no when will you be in Japan?”

toki

- 雨のとき、よく家で本を読みます =
Ame no toki, yoku uchi de hon o yomimasu
“When it rains, I often read books at home”
- 私はあまり映画を見ません = “I don’t see Watashi wa amari eiga o mimasen many movies.”
- 映画を見るのとき、よく午後頃見ます =
Eiga o miru no toki yoku gogo goro mimasu “When I watch movies, I usually go around the afternoon.”
- 高いじゃないです。安いですよ = “It’s not Takai jaa nai desu. Yasui desu yo.
expensive. It’s cheap!”

4.7 Comparisons

より means “more than” and is often used in comparisons. The position of the things being compared is opposite of that in English; e.g. “A is more _ than B” → “B より A _”.

Examples:

- It is better to leave than to stay 滞在するよりも出発する方がマシだ taizai-suru yori mo shuppatsu-suru kata ga mashi da
- It was faster than I thought それは思ったより早い sore wa omotta yori hayai
- You are more of a problem than that それより問題は お前だよ
sore yori mondai ha omae da yo

4.8 If

There are a few ways to say “if.” Essentially, they all follow the format:

“CONDITIONAL + particle + RESULT”

but the particle changes based on the context of the sentence and the conditional:

- たら - Constant and hypothetical situations but not contextual, and particularly good for making statements (e.g. if it’s not being talked about, you could say “if you drop the ball, it will fall” or “if you go to Japan, I will join you”). Is used for requests, recommendations, prohibition, order, or when the result depends on the completion of the conditional, and is kind of like saying when as well (“When it stops raining, let’s go jogging”). Has a sense of looking to the past (use of ~た), which is why it could possibly be translated to “when.”
 - たら uses the past tense of the verb, e.g. 食べたたら
- なら - Contextual hypothetical situations (e.g. if someone is talking about going to Japan, you can say “If you go to Japan, I will join you”). Also, as たら is more past-looking, you could use なら to show decisions, judgements, and opinions. It cannot be used for requests, recommendations, etc. (the things that たら is used for).
 - なら uses the plain tense of the verb,
e.g. 食べるなら
- と - Can replace either たら or なら; used for natural occurrences/constant results (e.g. if you drop the ball, it will fall).
 - なら uses the plain tense of the verb,
e.g. 食べると

- ば - Can replace either たら or なら, but can only be used in hypothetical situations, not constant situations since you’d use と instead. Tends to be used to emphasize the conditional part of the sentence instead of the resulting part (e.g. “IF my friend goes, then I will go, too”) or to make a suggestion (e.g. “what if we tried it this way”). Technically, there are some other rules with ば but they get somewhat complicated (e.g. if the conditional and result both have the same subject, you can’t use this).

ば verb conjugations

Verbs 来る kuru	Change the u to e 来れば kureba
い-adjectives ない negatives 楽しい 死にたくない	Replace final い with ければ 楽しければ 死にたくないければ
Nouns な-adjectives 元気	Add であれば 元気であれば

Summary

- たら and なら tend to be the anchors of if and can be replaced with ば or と depending on the specific situation
- たら has the fewest restrictions, followed by ば and なら
- ば is used for recommendations, so it may come across as you telling someone to do something
- As a simple base to use while learning initially, try to use たら in all situations except contextual, in which case use なら. However, it’s clear that they overlap in a lot of areas, so you’ll just have to listen a lot to find out the common usages.

Summary

	Constant	Hypoth.	One-time	Contextual
と	X
ば		X	X	X
たら	X	X	X
なら	X	X		X

One last note: もし means “if by any chance” and is a supplementary addition to a sentence. It can’t be used for constant expressions and is added to the very beginning of the sentence.

Examples:

たら

If it's ok/you don't mind, would you like to meet again?

- もしよかったらまた会いませんか (could also be 会わないの)
moshi yokattara mata aimasen ka

When you go to Japan, would you please buy a souvenir

- 日本に行ったら、お土産を買ってください nihon ni ittara, odosan o katte kudasai
- Note: request, so use たら

I will be happy if I can go

- 行けたら、嬉しいになります - Note: use of iketara, ureshii ni narimasu can/able to なら

If you drink alcohol, then please don't drive

- 酒を飲むなら、運転しないでください
sake o nomunara, untenshinaide kudasai

If I were rich, I'd buy a car

- 私が金持ちなら、車を買います - Could be watashi ga kanemochi nara, kuruma o kaimasu either なら or たら using 金持ち だったら

If you drink this before drinking alcohol,

- 酒を飲む前にこれを飲むなら、 sake o nomu mae ni kore o nomu nara, you'll feel better tomorrow

明日気分が良くなるです ashita kibun ga yoku naru desu

What are you if you aren't a tool?

- 道具じゃないなら何だというのだの
dougai ja nai nara nanda to iu da no

ば

If you go by taxi, you could make the 6 o'clock train

- タクシーで行けば、6時の電車に乗れるでしょう
takushii de ikeba, rokouji no densha ni noreru deshou

I will go shopping if I can meet with my friend

- 友達に会えれば、買い物に行きます - Note:
tomodachi ni aereba, kaimono ni ikimasu could also use たら

How can I become stronger?

- どうすればより強くなれるか - Note how dou sureba yori tsuyoku nareru ka this uses the comparison work より described in the previous section

If you win,

- そちが勝てば、
sochi ga kate ba,

I will give you whatever you ask

そちの望むもの何でも与えよう
sochi no nozomu mono nandemo ataeyou

If that is true, then the reason he went down below is

- 本当であれば、奴が下へ降りた理由は hontou deareba, yatsu ga shita he orita riyuu wa
so he could kill me down there 下で俺に殺すためです shita de ore ni korusu tame desu

Should I leave?

- 今から行けばいいのか
ima kara ikeba ii no ka

If you don't want to die, then run

- 死にたくなければ、逃げて
shinitakuna-kereba, nigete

4.9 Word specifics

4.9.1 Movement: iku vs kuru

The Japanese words for “come” (kuru) and “go” (iku) function slightly differently than in English. In English, “come” and “go” are in reference to the topic at hand (e.g. person A might say “come here” and person B would say “I’m coming”). In Japanese, these words are always in reference to the speaker; this means that most of the time, these words function the same as in English (“Come to my party” uses kuru and “Go to John’s party” uses iku). However, they function differently when there is a conversation about coming to the person speaking: if A says “come here”, then B says “I’m going”. Thus, the words always function in reference to the speaker, not the listener. When A speaks, B is going to A; when B speaks, B is going to A. Thus,

A: 来てください (kite kudasai) = “Please come”

B: 行きます (ikimasu) = “I’m coming”

4.9.2 A little: chotto

The Japanese word chotto literally means “little/a bit/a small amount,” e.g. chotto kudasai (“please give me a little”) and chotto matte kudasai (“please wait for a moment”). Chotto is commonly used for a polite refusal, where it would translate to “inconvenient/impossible/whatever.” In Japanese, people don’t usually refuse with iie because it sounds too direct.

Examples:

- doyoubi ni eiga o mimasenka = “Do you want to see a movie on Saturday?”
- doyoubi, chotto = “Saturday is not convenient for me”

4.9.3 Formality: go-/o- prefixes

It is common to add an extra お or ご before a word, e.g. kaasan would be mother, but okaasan is common to hear. The extra “go/o” is to make the word more formal. For example, お待って (omatte) would be said to make the request to “wait” more formal, as opposed to just saying まって (matte).

Depending on the word, “go” or “o” will be used.
Examples:

- お名前は 何ですか = “What is your name? (po-onamae wa nan desu ka lite)”
- ご出身は どちら ですか = “Where are you from?”
gosusshin wa dochira desu ka

4.9.4 Until: made

まで is the word used when trying to say until, by, or made before. It is used commonly to say “We are open until 5” or “Please come in before 3.”

Examples:

- 今日は 何時 まで ですか =
kyou wa nanji made desu ka
“When do you close? (lit. Until when do you exist?)”
- 六時 まで です =
rokuji made desu
“We are open until 6 (lit. until 6)”
- でも、五時半 まで に 来て ください =
demo, goji han made ni kite kudasai
“However, please come before 5:30 (lit. However, please come in until 5:30)”

4.9.5 For (the purpose of): you

ため is used to say something is for someone; use the particle の to say who/what the purpose is. There are other times ため is used outside of for people, but it is unclear what exactly at this time.

用 / よう is used to say phrases that point to the purpose/reason for doing something. This includes things like “be careful (for the purpose of) that you don’t get sick” and “that (for this purpose) is how you use it” (see examples below)

Examples:

ため

- あなた の ために これ を 買った
anata no tame ni kore o katta
I bought this for you
- その ため には 僕 準備 の 時間 が ほしい
sono tame ni wa, boku junbi no jikan ga hoshii
I want time to prepare for that よう

- 二人 用 の 席 を ください
futa-ri you no seki o kudasai
Seat for two people, please
- 僕 は 考え ない よう に し て いる - lit. I am doing for the purpose of not thinking boku wa kangaenai you ni shite iru
I try not to think about it
- その よう に 使 う ン です ね - lit. you use it for that purpose
sono you ni tsukau-n desu ne
You use it that way/that’s how you use it

Be careful not to get heat stroke

- 熱中症 にならない よう に 気 を 付けて
netsuchuuushou ni naranai you ni ki o tsukete
The next day, she made breakfast as usual/every day
- 次の 日、彼女 は いつも と 同じ よう に
tsugi no hi, kanojo wa itsumo to onaji you ni 朝ご飯 を 作りました asagohan o tsukurimashita

4.9.6 Thing/Concept: koto

事 is a generic noun that is an “abstract thing” and is often used to turn words before it into a substantive clause, i.e. nouns. For example, instead of saying you read books, you could instead talk about the action of reading books:

I read books It is fun to read books 本 を 読みます → 本 を 読む 事 は 楽しい です。
hon o yomimasu hon o yomu koto wa tanoshii desu

This is often used with “is able to” or “can.”

For example, 本 を 読めます is equivalent to saying
I can read books
本 を 読む 事 が できます (see Potential form).
hon o yomu koto ga dekimasu

Otherwise, 事 is used to mean a variety of words under the umbrella of “thing/concept.” Examples:

There was something I wanted to ask

- 一つ 聞きたい 事 が あった - Note how 事 is used in how they say “something” instead of 何か, lit. like saying “1 wanted-to-ask thing existed” which may tie into the Japanese cultural way of being indirect with what you want hitotsu kikitai koto ga atta
What do you mean/is the meaning of this
- どう いう こと
dou iu koto
It seems like that’s the case (lit. it is becoming such a thing)
- そう いう 事 に なっ て い ます
sou iu koto ni natte imasu
I don’t care about the bread anymore
- パン の こと は もう いい だ - here, it’s used to mean “the (this particular one)” (without it, the sentence would say “I don’t care about bread (in general)”)
pan no koto wa mou iinda
That’s unheard of/never heard of it
- 聞いた こと が ない
kiita koto ga nai
Have you ever been to Japan?
- 日本 に 行っ た こと が あ り ま す か
nihon ni itta koto ga arimasuka
Did you come here just to say that?
- そんな 事 を 言う ため に ここ に 来 た の か
sonna koto o iu tame ni koko ni kita no ka
If so, it was a wasted/useless trip
- だ と し た ら 無 駄 な 旅 だ っ た よ datoshitara mudana tabi datta yo

4.9.7 I wonder: kana

かな is used to show uncertainty, wondering, or otherwise not complete faith in what you’re saying. It’s used in cases where you say something like “(That sounds like a cool restaurant.) Maybe I should go there sometime.” It is used in casual settings, not really in formal situations. Examples:

- 明日 雪 が 降る かな = “I wonder if it will snow ashita yuki ga furu kana tomorrow?”
- これいくら かな = “I wonder how much this is”
kore ikura kana
- 音楽をやってみろかな = “I guess I’ll try out muongaku o yatte miro kana sic?”
- 音楽をやってみろかなと思って = “I thought ongaku o yatte miro kana to omotte that I should try out music”

4.9.8 Because: kara/node

To say “because,” use the format: “CAUSE + {BECAUSE} + EFFECT” where BECAUSE = から/ので. Often, a comma is placed after the BECAUSE word to further show separation.

Generally, から focuses more on the cause and ので focuses more on the effect. Less importantly, ので is used for factual/non-opinion-based things, whereas から is used for concepts based on personal opinion/suggestion/intention/speculation/request.

Examples:

- 明日 テスト がある ので 今夜 勉強しなきゃ =
ashita testo ga aru node konya benkyoushinakya
“I have to study tonight because I have a test tomorrow”
- 明日 仕事 に行かなくちゃ から、早く 寝なくちゃ
ashita shigoto ni ikanakucha kara, hayaku nenakucha
= “I have to go to sleep early because I have to go to work tomorrow”
- 暑い ので 気 を 付けて = “Be careful/take care atsui node ki o tsukete because it is hot”
- この二人 が いた から 助けたんだ = “Bekono futari ga ita kara tasuketta nda cause these two people were there, I was able to save you”

4.9.9 To do: suru vs garu

Both する and やる mean “to do,” but they are used in different situations:

する

- ~する verbs
- Choosing items - これを する と 思う
I think I’ll pick this one kore o suru to omou
- Wearing accessories
- Talking formally
- When talking about senses - 変な 匂い が する
There is a weird smell
henna nioi ga suru

やる

- Doing a physical action (in this case, する and やる are interchangeable) - ゲーム を やる
- When describing feelings
- When expressing joy or pride - やった!
- When giving to someone/something you look down on (like an animal)

4.9.10 Emphasis/Joking: なんて

The word なんて is used for two purposes: to emphasize the content of the sentence (usually the content placed before it) and to say just kidding. Emphasizing the content can be used to show a strengthened opinion, an exclamatory sentence, surprise, disappointment, excitement, etc. depending on the context. If used while quoting someone else, it’s common to put だ before なんて.

Examples:

- 田中 先生 なんて 聞いた こと ない
I’ve never heard of Tanaka sensei
tanaka sensei nante kiita koto nai
- 田中 先生 なんて 先生 は 聞いた こと ない
I’ve never heard of a teacher such as Tanaka sensei
tanaka sensei nante sensei wa kiita koto nai
- 最初 に 会った 時、なんて かわいい 女 の 子
When I first saw her/you, I thought “what a cute girl she was”
saisho ni atta toki, nante kawaii onna no ko なんだろう と 思いました nandarou to omoimashita
- 彼 の こと を 忘れる なんて こと は できない
There is no way I can forget him
kare no koto o wasureru nante koto wa dekinai
I can’t forget him
vs 彼 の こと を 忘れる こと は できない
kare no koto o wasureru koto wa dekinai
- 彼女は 私 の こと なんて 全然 知らない よ
Too bad she doesn’t know me at all kanojo wa watashi no koto nante zenzen shiranai yo
- 彼女 が 私 の こと を 好きだ なんて
I had no idea she liked me
kanojo ga watashi no koto o suki da nante
- こんな かわいい 彼女 が できた なんて
I can’t believe I have such a cute girlfriend
konna kawaii kanojo ga dekita nante
- 彼 が そんな こと を する なんて 信じられない
I can’t believe he did such a thing
kare ga sonna koto o suru nante shinjirarenai
- なんて つまらない 本 なんだ よ
What a boring book
nante tsumaranai hon nandayo
- なんて 素晴らしい 先生 だ よ
What a great teacher!
nante subarashii sensei da yo
- 今 なんて 言った?
What did you just say?
ima nante itta

- 雨なんて嫌いだ
ame nante kirai da

The word "friends" doesn't even come close to covering it

- 友達なんて言葉じゃ収まらない
tomodachi nante kotoba ja osamaranai
They're more, something I can't explain もっと訳のわからないものだよ the word motto wake no wakaranai mono da yo 'friends' doesn't even come close to covering it, they're something more, something I can't explain

Just kidding

- なんてね
nante ne

4.9.11 Way/method: 通 vs 道

Both 通 vs 道 mean "street, way" but they too/-tsuu michi/dou
are used in different contexts. Both can be used interchangeably for the physical "street, road, etc." but they differ when used for conceptual things.

通 tends to be used for way or as, such as "as I thought" or "as I was saying." 通 also seems to be a way of saying こと with verbs to say "that which" since こと would turn the verb into a gerund (e.g.
what you want 望む通り). On the other hand, 道 tends to be more like method or teachings such as "the way of the samurai" or "the method of writing" or "the proper way to write."

Examples:

- 通
That's right/that way
- その通りです
sono toori desu
- Just as I thought
- 私の思った通りだ
watashi no omotta toori da
- Please do as I say
- 私の言う通りにしてください
watashi no iu toori ni shite kudasai
- Life doesn't go as expected
- 人生は思い通りにいかないものだ
jinsei wa omoi toori ni ikanai mono da
- Just as the teacher said, the test was difficult
- 先生が言った通り、試験は難しかった
sensei ga itta toori, shiken wa muzukashikatta
- What Tommy is saying is right
- トミーの言う通りだ
tomii no iu toori da
- normally/usually
- 通常 - Note: has to be common occur-tsuujou rence (as opposed to an occasional thing that usually happens a certain way)
- normal
- 普通 - As in, not abnormal
futsuu
- as usual
- いつも通りだ itsumo toori da
- I will do whatever you want
- 私は君の望む通りにする
watashi wa kimi no nozomu toori ni suru

道 tool, instrument, apparatus, device

- 道具 dougu
water supply, waterworks
- 水道 suidou
Calligraphy
- 書道 shodou
Tea ceremony
- 茶道 sadou
I usually take this route
- 通常はこの道を通ります
tsuujou wa kono michi o toorimasu

5 Verbs

5.1 Overview

There are many types of verbs and conjugations in Japanese. There are “ru”-verbs, “u”-verbs, and irregular verbs. For every verb, there’s a base and a suffix. For example, taberu has the base tabe and suffix ru (it is a “ru” verb). Each verb base is used as a stem such that conjugations are appended after the base (e.g. tabete and tabemasu). Note: verb stems are often written using the tilde, “~” thought this isn’t the only use of the tilde.

Note that a key difference between “ru” and “u” verbs is that “ru” verb stems are just the base (verb - “ru”) whereas “u” verb stems are the base plus “i” (verb - “u” + “i”). i.e.
“verbru” → “verbmase”
“verbu” → “verbimasu”

Example verbs

	ru-verb	u-verb
dictionary	taberu (eat)	iku (to go)
base	tabe	ik
stems	tabe	iki
present (affirmative)	tabemasu	ikimasu
present (negative)	tabemasen	ikimasen

Conjugations depend on the tense in which the verb is used. For example, there is the dictionary form, which is used when talking about the word and occasionally in sentences (we can treat this like the unconjugated form of a verb). There is a present tense (affirmative), which can also be used as the future tense. There is a present tense (negative), to say you’re not doing something. The negative tense is often ended using masen but can sometimes be ended using verb nai desu. Most conjugations remain within the same letter category (e.g. iku only uses “k” syllables and never uses consonants other than “k”).

Note that just because a verb ends in “ru” or “u” doesn’t mean it is a “ru/u” verb; for example, kaeru is a “u”-verb whose base is kaer and present form is kaerimasu. Thus, you need to remember which are “ru” and “u” verbs.

Trick: with the exception of irregular verbs, if a verb has an “a”, “u”, or “o” right before the final ru, it’s definitely a “u”-verb. If a verb ends in “i” or “e” right before the final ru, it’s likely (though not guaranteed) to be a “ru”-verb. An example exception: kaeru is a “u”-verb.

There are also 2 irregular verbs that have odd effects, such as changing the vowel (e.g. in kuru, we replace the “u” in “ku” with “i”) upon conjugation (see the table). Other words can be converted into a verb by adding する at the end (so technically more than 2 irregular verbs, but only 2 conjugations you need to remember).

Example irregular verbs

	(to do)	(to come) dictionary	suru	kuru
stems	shi	ki
present (affirmative)	shimasu	kimasu
present (negative)	shimasen	kimasen

5.2 Tenses

5.2.1 Plain form/Simple present

The plain form (A.K.A. simple present) is used to mean either (1) a person regularly/habitually engages in the activity, or (2) a person will/plans to perform the activity in the future.

As briefly covered in Overview, the formal conjugation of a plain form/simple present tense of a verb is ます or います for る and う verbs, respectively. The informal conjugation is simply the verb as-is, so no conjugation.

Simple Present Conjugations

	Formal	Informal
る	ます	る
う	います	う

Examples include:

- 私はよくテレビを見ます = “I often watch television”
watashi wa yoku terebi o mimasu
- 私はときどき朝ご飯を食べません = “I sometimes don’t eat breakfast”
watashi wa tokidoki asagohan o tabemasen
- 私はあした京都に行きます = “I will go to Kyoto tomorrow”
watashi wa ashita Kyoto ni ikimasu
- 私は今日うちに帰りません = “I will not return home today”
watashi wa kyou uchi ni kaerimasen

5.2.2 Past tense

The past tense says something did/didn’t happen in the past (e.g. I ate yesterday). Note that the -ta form requires the same verb-ending changes as the -te form (see -te form). This also works for adjectives (see the examples below).

desu

	Affirmative	Negative
present tense	～です	～じゃないです
past tense	～でした	～じゃなかったです

The past tense of verbs (as opposed to です) follow a similar pattern:

Verbs

	Affirmative	Negative
present tense	～ます	～ません
past tense	～ました	～ませんでした
(colloquial past)	～た	～なかったです

Examples:

- あれは 日本 の 映画 じゃなかったです =
are wa nihon no eiga janakattadesu “That was not a Japanese movie”
- メアリーさんは 午後 九時 頃 うち に 帰りました
Mearii-san wa gogo kyuuji goro uchi ni kaerimashita
= “Mary came back home around 9 PM”
- 私は 昨日 日本語 を 勉強 しませんでした = “I Watashi wa kinou nihongo o benkyoushimasendeshita did not study Japanese yesterday”
- トミーさんと 私は 先週 お寺 に 行きました
Tomii-kun to watashi wa senshuu otera ni ikimashita
= “Tommy and I went to a temple last week”
- 我々は 十時 に 帰ら なかったです = “We did Wareware wa juuji ni kaeranakattadesu not return at 10 (colloquial)”
- 忙しかった = “I have been busy”
isogashikatta

5.2.3 -te form

The -te form of verbs are very common and used in multiple different situations. The -te form is tenseless, in that it isn’t present, past, or future, however, it can be used in all three situations. Cases where it is used include:

- Requests/commands:
 - ～て = command
 - ～てください = request (do this please)
 - ～てくれますか = more formal question for superiors (would you please do this)
- Connecting two verb phrases with “and” (see And)
- For saying “after __-ing, ...”
To do so, use ～て から
- Expressing that something is happening currently
- Asking permission to do something
- Used with 見る to mean “to try”

- Lots of other expressions (too detailed for right now), often which include some type of variation of two verbs together (e.g.
I will take a bus バス に 乗って 行きます)
basu ni notte ikimasu

The verb-ending changes are listed below. Note that -ru verbs are always easy and -u verbs with different consonant endings are the main ones that change. The past tense -ta form is also made with these verb-ending changes.

Verb-ending changes

suru verbs	shite
kuru	kite
-ru verbs	～te vowel + u tsu	～tte ru mu
nu	～nde bu
ku	～ite
gu	～ide
su	～shite
行く iku	行って

Examples:

- 助けて ください = “Please help”
tasukete kudasai
- 朝ごはんを 食べて、家を出ました = “I ate asagohan o tabete, ie o demashita breakfast and left the house”
- 卵を 食べて から、うち に 帰りました = “Aftamago o tabete kara, uchi ni kaerimashita ter eating eggs, I returned home.”
- 飲んで います = “I am drinking”
nonde imasu
- 本を 読んで も いい です か = “Is it ok if I read hon o yonde mo ii desu ka
a book?”
- 猫を 助けて みます = “I will try to help the cat”
neko o tasukete mimasu

In order to make the negative -te form, you just add de to the end of the nai form of the verb.

Being direct/slightly harsh

If trying to be direct/slightly harsh/rude (e.g. being mad at someone) when telling someone to do something, rather than use the -te form, you’d use a form that’s kind of a mix between -te and should/let’s.

Conjugations

～ru	～ro
～u	～e
食べる	食べる
行く	行け
待つ	待て
痛い (hurts)	痛てえ (ouch!)

5.2.4 Casual negative form (nai)

While ません is the formal negative form of a verb, ない is the casual negative form. It follows the following format:

Nai form

Verb	Form
Ru-verbs	～る→ない
U-verbs	～(u→a)ない
Vowel+u	～(u→wa)ない
する	しない
くる	こない
ある	ない

5.2.5 Potential form

The potential form says that someone “is able” or “can” do something, such as (e.g. I can eat). To do this, you simply change the verb a bit, you don’t have to conjugate it differently:

Potential form

ru-verbs	～られる
u-verbs	～(u→e)る
する	～できる
来る	～こられる

This means that all verbs become ru-verbs. Note that for u-verbs, the final u becomes an e, e.g. 書く becomes 書ける.

When using the potential form, you don’t use the direct object particle, を. Instead, use は or が.

Another way to use the potential form is to use unconjugated verb + こと + ができる. Note how こと is used instead of 事. This means that there are two ways to say “can/can’t” (with example of eating):

食べる こと が できます and 食べられます.

Examples:

- 私は読めます = “I can read books”
watashi wa yomemasu
- 今日は食べられません = “I can’t eat today”
kyou wa taberaremasen

- 友達のおかげ、私は映画を見ることができた
tomodachi no okage, watashi wa eiga o miru koto ga dekita
= “Thanks to my friend, I was able to see the movie”
- 友達のおかげ、私は映画を見られます =
tomodachi no okage, watashi wa eiga o miraremasu (same as above)
- 私は話すことができます、
watashi wa hanasu koto ga dekimasu, でも聞くことができません = “I can speak demo kiku koto ga dekimasen
but can’t listen”
- 私は話せます、でも聞けません = (same as watashi wa hanasemasu, demo kikemasen above)
- 自分にできることをやる = “Do what you jibun ni dekiru koto o yaru can do”

5.2.6 Want

When describing what someone wants or wants to do, there are a whole bunch of ways to express it and a whole bunch of small technicalities for how to express that.

When wanting nouns

When talking about yourself, you say “<object> ga hoshii desu.” Note the usage of “ga” instead of “o.” Example: 私はお金が欲しいです = “I want money.” In informal settings, you can drop the desu.

When wanting to do something (verb)

When talking about yourself, you use “~tai desu” where ~ = verb stem. Example: 私はその本を読みたいです = “I want to read that book.” Alternatively, you can use “ga” instead of “o” to emphasize the subject (object? not sure). Again, in informal settings, you can drop the desu.

When to use ~tai

“~tai” is actually quite personal, so it can only be used for yourself and in question to a second person. Do not use it in question to a superior. Example: 何が食べたいですか = “What do you want to eat?”

Third person

When talking about what someone in the third person wants, we use a similar method as what was used for yourself. The difference is that you write “hoshiigatte imasu” for objects and “~tagatte imasu” for verbs. Unlike when talking about yourself, you only use “o” for objects, never “ga.” Examples:

私のお兄さんはこの映画を見たがっています watashi no oniisan wa kono eiga o mitagatte imasu
 = “My older brother wants to see this movie.” トミーくんはお金を欲しいがっています =
 Tommy-kun wa okane o hoshiigatte imasu
 “Tommy wants money”

When wanting someone to do something for you
 To express a desire for someone to do something, the verb will be “~te hoshii desu” and the other person is marked with “ni”. Example:
 これを彼に届けて欲しいですか = “Do you kore o kare ni todokete hoshii desu ka want me to deliver this to him?”
 In the same way, we could use the verb 貰う/もらう
 (to get) to ask to receive something. ^{morau} To do this, we use “~te moraitai desu.” Example:
 洋子に運転してもらいたいです = “I want Yoko Yoko ni untenshite moraitai desu to drive.”

When wanting a superior to do something for you Same as “morau” except use “itadaku”
 in the form “itadakitai” Example:
 田中先生に来ていただきたいです = “I want Tanaka-sensei ni kite itadakitai desu professor Tanaka to come.”

Negative form of want

To say you/someone doesn't want something, add くな after ほし. Examples:

I don't want a dog 犬が欲しいくないです inu ga hoshikunai desu
 Tommy didn't want to drink beer
 トミーくんはビールを飲みたくなかった。
 Tommy-kun wa biiru o nomitakunakatta
 I don't want to eat alone
 一人で食べたくない

Past tense

The past tense is pretty much the same as standard past tense: use ~かった for past positive and ~なかった for past negative, e.g. ^{I wanted to talk} 話したかった。 hanashitakatta

Summary

Self

Object	自分が欲しいです
Verb	～たいです
Negative	が欲しいくない (object)

Third person

Object	～を欲しいがっています
Verb	～たがっています
Negative	～たくない (verb)

Favor

[に] ~て {欲しい/もらいたい/いただきたい} です

Tenses

Present	～たい
Negative	～たくない
Past	～たかった
Negative	～たくなかった

5.2.7 Must

There are lots of ways to say you must/need to do something. They come from a round-about way of saying must: “it would be bad if I didn't do it.” The base form is ~なくては いけません which is like saying “(neg. verb) は can not do it.” More specifically, it follows the form:

ending = choice of ため/いけない/ならない

- Negative te-form + は + ending
- Negative verb + と/ば + ending

However, this isn't generally used except in really formal situations, so some kind of abbreviation is used more often. This abbreviation is made by dropping the い in the ない form and adding either きや or くちゃ. You may also mix the abbreviation with いけない to show emphasis. There is no abbreviation for the past tense.

Examples:

- ^{I have to go to school every day} 毎日 学校に行かないとだめです =
 mainichi gakkou ni ikanai to dame desu 毎日 学校に いかなきゃ
 mainichi gakkou ni ikanakya
- 宿題をしなくては いけなかった = “I had to shukudai o shinakute wa ikenakatta do my homework”
- 明日 仕事に行かなくちゃ から、早く寝なくちゃ
 ashita shigoto ni ikanakucha kara, hayaku nenakucha
 = “I have to go to sleep early because I have to go to work tomorrow”
- 色々しなきゃいけないんだよね = “I have a iroiro shinakya ikenai-ndayone lot of/various things to do”

5.2.8 Should/Let's

In English, “should” and “must” are basically the same thing. In Japanese, however, “should” is weaker than “must” and has slightly different meanings depending on how it’s used:

- Let’s
- Hedging your bets on if an action would be beneficial or not
- Would/probably/hopefully (when used with です/だ)
- To soften a question (in place of ね)

Examples:

- Let’s go 行きましょう ikimashou
- Maybe I should go see that movie, too?
私もその映画を見ようかな?
watashi mo sono eiga o miyou kana?
- It would (probably) be more convenient if I rode with you あなたと一緒に乗って方が都合だろう anata to issho ni notte hou ga tsugou darou
- You’re going to the party, too, right?
君もパーティーに行くだろう?
kimi mo paatii ni iku darou?
- Is he nervous?
彼は緊張しているのだろうか kare wa kinchou shite iru no darou ka

5.3 Imasu/Arimasu vs Desu

Desu is a form of “to be,” meaning that it is used when it is saying that “[something] is [something]”, like “the cat is black” or “I like cheese” or “I am happy.” Imasu/arimasu are meant to say something is in existence, like “the cat is there” or “there is plenty of cheese” or “do you have a green shirt?” Additionally, arimasu can be used to show ownership. For example, テレビがあります = “There is a TV/I have a TV” whereas テレビです = “It is a TV.”

Note the other subtle differences between arimasu and desu:

- When talking about a location, あります uses the particle に instead of で which is used for です.
- When talking about a location, the place description usually comes at the beginning of the sentence.
- When using あります, you use が instead of は for the subject/thing description. Example: あそこ に テレビ があります = “There is a TV over there” (note the particle に to describe location).

5.4 Imasu vs Arimasu

Imasu is usually used for living things while arimasu is for non-living things. Exceptions/edge-cases include dead bodies (arimasu), robots (imasu), and plants (arimasu). Sometimes, arimasu also shows possession, e.g. Shukudai ga arimasu = “There is/I have homework.”

5.5 List of verbs

RU-verbs (1)

いる (います) iru imasu	is/exists (animate)
食べる taberu	to eat
見る miru	to see/look at/watch Also means “to try”
夢見る yumemiru	to dream
起きる okiru	to get up
寝る neru	to sleep/go to sleep
始める hajimeru	to begin/start
辞める yameru	to quit (doing something)
止める tomeru	to stop an object (e.g. stop a car)
止まる tomaru	to stop (doing something temporarily)
生きる ikiru	to live (exist/survive) (Confusingly, this has the same conjugations as 行く)
できる dekiru	can/to be able to
考える kangaeru	to think about
助ける tasukeru	to help (as in a rescue)
着る kiru	to wear
信じる shinjiru	to believe
出る deru	to exit/come out/leave を = where you left from に = leaving for something I left the store 店を出ました mise o demashita I left for (to go to) class クラスに出ました kurasu ni demashita
離れる hanareru	to leave Used more for the case where you're separating from something, going away for a longer period of time, or when being a long way off
調べる shiraberu	to investigate
疲れる tsukareru	to fatigue/get tired
与える ataeru	to give
くれる kureru	someone giving to me
教える oshieru	to teach
似る niru	to resemble/be similar A is similar to B AはBに似ています A wa B ni nite imasu
逃げる nigeru	to escape/run away
増える fueru	to increase

Ru-verbs (2)

耐える taeru	to endure/bear
付ける tsukeru	to attach, apply, put on, wear
集める atsumeru	to collect/gather (猫集め) neko atsume
負ける makeru	to lose (a game)/to be defeated
巫山戯る fuzakeru	to fool around
出かける dekakeru	to go out (non-romantic)
連れる tsureru	to lead/take (with)
連れて行く tsureteiku	to bring/take along
入れる ireru	to put in/add
答える kotaeru	to answer
捕まえる tsukamaeru	to catch (e.g. catch a bug)
賭ける kakeru	to bet (e.g. money)
忘れる wasureru	to forget
見つける mitsukeru	to find/locate/discover
振られる furareru	to dump (dating)
別れる wakareru	to break up
借りる kariru	to borrow
任せる makaseru	to leave up to someone
告げる tsugeru	to tell/inform/reveal
遅れる okureru	I'm late for the bus to be late (バスに遅れる) basu ni okureru
覚える oboeru	to remember
見覚える mioboeru	to recognize/recollect
感じる kanjiru	to feel (emotions, experience)
伝える tsutaeru	to convey/communicate/report
惚れる horeru	to fall in love

U-verbs (1)

ある (あります) aru arimasu	is/exists (inanimate)
行く iku	to go
帰る kaeru	to go back/return
聞く kiku	to listen/hear/ask
言う iu	to say/tell
飲む nomu	to drink
読む yomu	to read
話す hanasu	to speak/talk (a language)
待つ matsu	to wait
歩く aruku	to walk
走る hashiru	to run
持つ motsu	to have/possess/carry
学ぶ manabu	to learn (in general)
習う narau	to learn (by study)
成る naru	to become
住む sumu	to live (inhabit/dwell, as in a house)
泳ぐ oyogu	swim
書く kaku	to write
知る shiru	to know
思う omou	to think
思い出す omoidasu	to remember
出す dasu	to put out/issue/produce/send
貰う morau	to receive/get
いただく itadaku	to receive/get (polite)
会う au	to meet/to see (a person)
買う kau	to buy
払う harau	to pay
売る uru	to sell
取る toru	to take (most general usage, so could be taking photos or taking a book with you. Not for stealing)
分かる wakaru	to understand (think wakarimashita)
手伝う tetsudau	to help (assist, be handy)
作る tsukuru	to create/make/prepare/build
遊ぶ asobu	to play
減る heru	to decrease

U-verbs (2)

乗る noru	ride/get on/board
向かう mukau	to head (towards)
入る hairu	to enter
座る suwaru	to sit
立つ tatsu	to stand
変わる kawaru	to change
代わる kawaru	to change (substitute)
使う tsukau	to use
着く tsuku 到着する touchakusuru	to arrive
済む sumu	to finish/complete
終わる owaru	to finish/end/close/stop (but not necessarily complete)
続く tsuzuku	to continue
勝つ katsu	to win
許す yurusu	to forgive
笑う warau	to laugh
開く aku/hiraku	to open aku = from side (swing door) hiraku = center (flower/book/elevator) Ru-verb 開ける = alt. of aku akeru
置く oku	to put/place
返す kaesu	to return (an object)
動く ugoku	to move
選ぶ erabu	to choose/pick (an option) ^{option} 選択 sentaku
離す hanasu	to separate/let go of
降る furu	to fall (from the sky)
降りる oriru	to get off (e.g. bus)/to descend
消す kesu	to erase/delete/extinguish turn off/neutralize
取り消す torikesu	to take back/cancel/revoke Note 取る and 消す toru kesu
働く hataraku	to work
驚く odoroku	to be surprised (objective/over time)
落ち着く ochitsuku	to calm down (uses ^{to arrive} 着く) tsuku
通る tooru	to go through/pass through
経つ tatsu	to elapse/pass by (time)
死ぬ shinu	to die
殺す korosu	to kill
頑張る ganbaru	to do your best
泊まる tomaru	to stay at (e.g. for a trip, like a hotel)

U-verbs (3)

呼ぶ yobu	to call (e.g. name)/to invite
効く kiku	to work (correctly)/be effective
合う au 付き合う tsukiau 間に合う ma ni au	to fit (in a group/place) often combined with other verbs to date (romantic) to be in time
曲がる magaru	to turn (e.g. around a corner)
上がる agaru	to go up (e.g. stairs)
下がる sagaru	to go down
嗅ぐ kagu	to smell
貸す kasu	to lend
断る kotowaru	to refuse/decline
脱ぐ nugu	to take off (clothes)
残る nokoru	remain (be left over)
吸う suu	to suck/breathe in/smoke
触る sawaru	to touch/feel
泣く naku	to cry
収まる osamaru	to fit into (a category, box, etc.) to settle into (position, place, etc.) to be settled (dispute, accept answer)
ムカつく	to piss off

Irregular verbs (1)

来る kuru	to come
する suru	to do
勉強する benkyou suru	to study
料理する ryouri suru	to cook
運転する unten suru	to drive
出発する shuppatsu suru	to depart/leave
留学する ryuugaku suru	study abroad
練習する renshuu suru	to practice
成功する seikou suru	to succeed
お勧めする osusume suru	to recommend
販売する hanbai suru	to sell (^{sale} 販売) hanbai
購入する kounyuu suru	to purchase (^{purchase} 購入) kounyuu
変更する henkou suru	to change
熟練する jukuren suru	to be skilled
指示する shiji suru	to instruct
注文する chuumon suru	to order (food)
準備する / 用意する junbi suru / youi suru	to prepare
信頼する shinrai suru	to trust/confide
心配する shinpai suru	to worry
安心する anshin suru	to relax (^{relief, peace of mind} 安心) anshin
約束する yakusoku suru	to promise
約束をやめる yakusoku o yameru	to break a promise (-ru verb)
要請する yousei suru	to request
運動する undou suru	to exercise
掃除する souji suru	to clean
吃驚する bikkuri suru	to be surprised (instantaneously)
説明する setsumei suru	to explain
連絡する renraku suru	to contact (communication)
観光する kankou suru	to sightsee/travel/explore
再開する saikai suru	to resume (^{again} 再び) futatabi
翻訳する hon'yaku suru	to translate
感謝する kansha suru	to thank someone
期待する kitai suru	to expect
散歩する sanpo suru	to take a walk
公開する koukai suru	to publish/release to public

Irregular verbs (2)

招待する shoutai suru	to invite
外出する gaishutsu suru	to go out (on an outing)
案内する an'nai suru	to guide/show around
楽しみにする tanoshimi ni suru	to look forward to
出席する shusseki suru	to attend
参加する sanka suru	to participate
同居する dousei suru	to live together
無視する mushi suru	to ignore
緊張する kinchou suru	to get nervous

5.6 Verb Specifics

^{to leave}
離れる is typically used for longer term/greater distance separation. For example:

I will be very lonely if you leave Japan あなた が 日本 を 離れる と 私 は とても 寂しく なります anata ga nihon o hanareru to watashi ha totemo sabishiku narimasu

The policeman asked people to back off/leave その 警官 は 人々 に 後ろ に 下がって 離れる よう に 言った
sono keikan ha hitobito ni ushiro ni sagatte hanareru you ni itta

Be sure to extinguish the fire before you leave (it)

離れる 前に 必ず 火 を 消しなさい
hanareru mae ni kanarazu hi o keshinasai

6 Kana

Japanese writing is termed kana, which is the combination of kanji, hiragana, and katakana.

Hiragana is used for native Japanese words and comprises all sounds in Japanese.

Katakana is used for new, non-native words (e.g. television) and also comprises all sounds in Japanese.

Kanji is the imported writing system from China, and is the bulk of what is written in Japanese.

Furigana is a combination of kanji and hiragana where the hiragana characters are shrunk and placed next to or above/below kanji. The purpose of the hiragana is to indicate pronunciation, e.g.

watashi 私 iku or 行く
watashi わたし い い

6.1 Pronunciation

Japanese is actually quite easy to speak, in comparison to English, because every vowel and consonant has (almost) the same pronunciation, i.e. there are no two ways to pronounce the vowel “a,” there’s only the one. Each hiragana sound takes up one unit of pronunciation time, e.g. みんな would have the same amount of time to pronounce each letter.

6.1.1 Vowels

Vowel pronunciations are as follows:

- “A” – Always the short “ah” sound, as made in “blah”
- “I” – Always the long “e” sound, as made in “bee”
- “U” – Always the long “u” sound, as made in “spoon” (except when preceded with an “o” sound)
- “E” – Always the short “eh” sound, as made in “Meh”
- “O” – Always the long “o” sound, as made in “oh”

Vowel sounds only change when two vowel sounds are put together, e.g. to make the long “A” sound, one must add an い after a letter that ends in the “e” sound. “OI” and “UI” sound as expected, like “oink” and “gooey.”

- “AI” – Long “I” sound, as in “Plight”
- “EI” – Long “A” sound, as in “freight train”
- “OU” – A prolonged “O” sound, as in “ohhh”

Example: えいが (movie) sounds like “A-gah”. はい sounds like “Hi.”

If two vowels are next to each other (or if there is a う after an “o” sound), then the vowel is prolonged.

6.1.2 Dropped Vowels

The vowels “i” and “u” are sometimes dropped when placed between voiceless consonants {k, s, t, p, h} or when at the end of an utterance of a word. For example, 好きです would be pronounced “ski des” and 話して would be pronounced “hanashte.”

suki desu hanashite

6.1.3 On’yomi and Kun’yomi

Now, each kanji character has two or more pronunciations: on’yomi (Chinese) and kun’yomi (native Japanese). These two pronunciations were the combination of a spoken (Japanese) language that was adopting a written (Chinese) language. Sometimes, there are multiple on’yomi or kun’yomi pronunciations depending on the sounds next to the kanji (e.g. 日 on’yomi could be “hi” or “bi”).

音読み (lit. “sound reading”) is the Chinese pronunciation of a word and is usually the pronunciation of kanji when multiple kanji are together because the pronunciation originated from Chinese, e.g. 富士山.
fujisan

訓読み is the native Japanese pronunciation of a word and is usually used when the kanji is alone or (always when) combined with hiragana, e.g. 山.
yama

There are exceptions to these two general rules (e.g. kun’yomi is used for 手紙), so it doesn’t always work this way.

For example, kun’yomi is usually used for Japanese names (both of people and locations), even though they’re often written with multiple kanji.

6.2 Hiragana

Essentially, hiragana is used for particles, conjunctions, and other parts of sentences that aren’t necessarily represented by kanji. Note that particles (which exist alone (not inside words) in order to connect words, not used to spell words) are spelled differently than are pronounced. For example, wa is written like わ when it is inside/part of words, e.g. Watashi. However, wa is written like は for particles, e.g. Anata wa. The transformations are: {wa→は(ha), e/we→へ, o/wo→を}. This means that, e.g., the sentence watashi wa tabete imasu (I am eating) becomes 私は食べています instead of using わ.

Diacritic marks - The basic syllables can be expanded upon by adding two short diagonal strokes (”) to convert the letters {k→g, s→z, t→d, h→b}. Also, the consonant h changes to p when you add a small circle.

Hiragana Chart

•	w	r	y	m	h	n	t	s	k
ん n/m	わ wa	ら ra	や ya	ま ma	は ha	な na	た ta	さ sa	か ka	あ a
		り ri		み mi	ひ hi	に ni	ち chi	し shi	き ki	い i
		る ru	ゆ yu	む mu	ふ fu	ぬ nu	つ tsu	す su	く ku	う u
		れ re		め me	へ he	ね ne	て te	せ se	け ke	え e
	を o	ろ ro	よ yo	も mo	ほ ho	の no	と to	そ so	こ ko	お o

 JapanesePod101.com

Figure 1: Basic hiragana syllables

が ga	ぎ gi	ぐ gu	げ ge	ご go
ざ za	じ ji	ず zu	ぜ ze	ぞ zo
だ da	*ぢ ji	*づ zu	で de	ど do
ば ba	び bi	ぶ bu	べ be	ぼ bo
ぱ pa	ぴ pi	ぷ pu	ぺ pe	ぽ po

*ぢ (ji) and づ (zu) are pronounced the same as じ (ji) and ず (zu), respectively, and have limited use.

Figure 2: Hiragana diacritics

Diagraphs - Contractions of sounds into one syllable can be represented by placing a small character for either ya (や), yu (ゆ), or yo (よ) after the original character for which you're trying to overwrite the sound. For example, chan will be a combination of chi and ya to result in the cha sound: ちゃん.

Double Consonants

Finally, there is another small letter that looks like tsu called the sokuon, っ. This is used to show repeated consonants. I'm pretty sure that, because all hiragana end in a vowel sound, that this only applies to the first consonant of the following hiragana character. This means that, for example, かった, which is ka-つ-ta, would come out to katta (won) as opposed to kata (shoulder). Note that this isn't the case with double n's, which use ん. Some examples include:

- かった - katta - won
- はっぱ - happa - leaf
- さっか - sakka - writer
- さんねん - sannen - three years

r	m	p	b	h	n	ch	j	sh	g	k
り	み	ぴ	び	ひ	に	ち	じ	し	ぎ	き	ya
り	み	ぴ	び	ひ	に	ち	じ	し	ぎ	き	yu
り	み	ぴ	び	ひ	に	ち	じ	し	ぎ	き	yo

Figure 3: Hiragana contractions

6.3 Katakana

Katakana is used for new words that didn't exist in Japan previously, including company names, scientific terms, and technology. Often, if you don't know the Japanese version of a word, you can say an English version of the word (e.g. ginkou for bank could be understood with banku instead). While hiragana is more curvy, katakana is more angular in nature.

Katakana has diacritics and conjunctions, too. It also uses the sokuon letter, ッ, which is a small version of the letter for tsu, ツ.

Katakana also allows other small letter combinations (e.g. “halloween” → ハロウィーン where ウ is harowiin u and ィ is i) in order to allow for sounds that aren't in the Japanese alphabet.

Long vowels are written with the ー symbol. When writing vertically, the ー symbol is rotated 90 degrees, too.

Practice

てテ	ちチ	こコ	らラ	をヲ	りリ	くク
なナ	ふフ	もモ	せセ	ひヒ	よヨ
ぬヌ	るル	さサ	ゆユ	すス	みミ	ほホ
れレ	にニ	のノ	むム	とト	たタ	まマ
っツ	へヘ	わワ	めメ	しシ	ねネ	やヤ
はハ	きキ	そソ	けケ	かカ	じジ	ろロ
あア	いイ	うウ	えエ	おオ	んン

Katakana Chart

•	w	r	y	m	h	n	t	s	k
ン n/m	ワ wa	ラ ra	ヤ ya	マ ma	ハ ha	ナ na	タ ta	サ sa	カ ka	ア a
		リ ri		ミ mi	ヒ hi	ニ ni	チ chi	シ shi	キ ki	イ i
		ル ru	ユ yu	ム mu	フ fu	ヌ nu	ツ tsu	ス su	ク ku	ウ u
		レ re		メ me	ヘ he	ネ ne	テ te	セ se	ケ ke	エ e
	ヲ o	ロ ro	ヨ yo	モ mo	ホ ho	ノ no	ト to	ソ so	コ ko	オ o

 JapanesePod101.com

Figure 4: Basic katakana syllables

r	m	p	b	h	n	ch	j	sh	g	k
リャ	ミャ	ピャ	ビャ	ヒャ	ニャ	チャ	ジャ	シャ	ギャ	キャ	ya
リュ	ミュ	ピュ	ビュ	ヒュ	ニュ	チュ	ジュ	シュ	ギュ	キュ	yu
リョ	ミョ	ピョ	ビョ	ヒョ	ニョ	チョ	ジョ	ショ	ギョ	キョ	yo

Figure 5: Katakana contractions